More Snow Hits West Kentucky

As another bout of winter weather hit the western portion of Kentucky today with four or more inches of snow forecast by Wednesday morning by the National Weather Service, schools in both the city and the county were closed.

This marks the third day classes have been canceled in the Murray Independent School System. Students returned to school Friday and Monday after getting a vacation Wednesday and Thursday because of last week's snow and ice storm.

Meanwhile, Calloway County School System students did not attend classes today following a one-day return Monday. County schools were closed Wednesday, Thursday and Friday with buses traveling only on passable roads Monday.

A heavy snow warning was issued by the NWS for western Kentucky. Central and eastern portions of the state were placed under a travelers advisory, and up to five inches of snow was expected in those areas.

The NWS said that two fronts would combine to produce the heavy snow. A low pressure system was moving toward western Kentucky early today, after dumping snow in the Great Plains states. Adding to Kentucky's miseries was a second low pressure system, this located in the Gulf States, that was pushing moist air towards Kentucky and the invading cold front.

Snow began over western Kentucky about dawn and was forecast to move steadily eastward across the state during the day. Snow was expected to dissipate to flurries tonight in the west, while central and eastern Kentucky could expect snow overnight.

The NWS extended forecast calls for little or no precipitation Thursday through Friday. However, the extended forecast calls only for temperatures in the 30s through Saturday, with little melting of snow during that period.

Schools in the Kentucky counties of Bath, Clay, Graves, Hickman, Carlisle, Ballard, Caldwell, Lyon, Marshall, McCracken, Lawrence and Trigg were closed today because of the inclement weather.

Other school closings included Mayfield, Paducah, Paducah Community College and Paducah St. Mary's.

SNOWSHAPES — New-fallen snow turned deserted playground equipment in the Murray-Calloway County Park into pleasing geometric contrasts this morning. Weather service forecasts of accumulations of four or more inches in the area forced the cancellation of classes in both the Calloway County and the Murray school systems today.

Etherton Chosen State Speech Teacher Of Year

Mark Etherton, speech coach at Murray High School, has been selected 1980 Kentucky Speech Teacher of the Year, according to Dr. Vernon Gantt, chairman of the selection committee.

Etherton now becomes the state's nominee for the Southern Speech Teacher of the Year to be selected at the annual meeting of the Southern Speech Communication Association in Birmingham, Ala., this spring.

Etherton, a 1971 graduate of Murray High School, received a bachelor's degree in speech and history from Murray State University in 1975 and a master's degree in speech and theatre from MSU in 1976.

He started an extracurricular program with 10 students in 1976, the year he began teaching. Last year, more than 150 students participated in a variety of programs in speech and theatre. Students consistently display the excellence of the program by repeated success in regional, state and national speech tournaments, according to Gantt.

This year, the school's production of "Dark of the Moon" at the Kentucky Theatre Association annual meeting was selected as best play and will represent Kentucky at the Southeastern Theatre Conference in Nashville this March.

School officials, teaching peers, students and parents supported Etherton's nomination. Superintendent Robert Glin Jeffrey said, "Mark has inspired students to set goals that were often deemed unreal for a small system where little emphasis had been placed on the speech program."

A former student characterized Etherton's philosophy by saying, "What we do in forensics is not to defeat an opponent, nor to win a prize, but to emulate the best."

Gantt said the committee considered five criteria in selecting the honoree:

— The nominee has developed an active program, rather than just continued an inherited one.

— The nominee has been judged an effective teacher by teaching peers and superiors.

— The nominee has been judged an effective teacher by the students.

— The nominee has generated favorable publicity about the program.

— The nominee has evidenced a dedication to the discipline.

— The nominee has taught less than five years.

Dr. Bob Edmonds of Georgetown College and Dr. James Pearce of Western Kentucky University served with Gantt as a committee of the Kentucky Association of Communication Arts to select the Kentucky Speech Teacher of the Year.

'Tax Time' Section Is Published Today

The deadline for filing federal income tax forms with the Internal Revenue Service is more than two months away but now would be an excellent time to get a jump on the tax man.

With this thought in mind, The Murray Ledger & Times is today publishing its annual "Tax Time" section — a guide to filing the income tax forms.

It's a good idea to start early to begin gathering together your forms, receipts, etc., in preparation for filling out your return for the 1979 Tax Year. An early start may keep you from having to dig through stacks of receipts and cancelled checks and pulling your hair out come mid-April.

Information contained in this special section should be helpful as you undertake the annual task. The information is supplied directly from the Internal Revenue Service.

Through Expenditures For Goods, Services

MSU Employees Aid City Economy

Employees of Murray State University pumped almost $11.6 million into the economy of Murray and Calloway County during the 1978-79 fiscal year through their expenditures for goods and services.

That estimate is listed among the "direct benefits" of the university to the community in a recent study by Dr. Gilbert L. Mathis, professor of economics at Murray State.

Entitled "The Economic Impact of Murray State University on Murray and Calloway County," the study concludes that 1,030 university employees spent an estimated $11,575,586 locally in 1978-79 for a variety of goods and services.

Mathis divided university employees into three categories — non-teaching administrative personnel, faculty, and non-administrative or non-teaching employees (primarily hourly wage personnel) — in calculating his survey data.

The number of employees and the total estimated expenditure of each group follows: 150 administrators, $1,936,503; 390 faculty, $4,325,708; and 490 other staff members, $5,313,475.

Among the largest categories of expenditures were: rent or house payments; food and beverages; utilities and telephone; life insurance; gasoline and oil; and clothing.

Based on the response to his survey, Mathis estimated the average amount spent by people in each group and the total dollars expended by each group.

He listed these figures in his survey tables:

Administrators — $2,628 average and $394,254 total for rent or house payments; $2,132 average and $319,824 total for food and beverages; $1,396 average and $209,830 total for utilities and telephone; $860 average and $129,078 total for life insurance; $818 average and $122,742 total for gasoline and oil; and $617 average and $92,610 total for clothing.

Faculty — $2,257 average and $880,308 total for rent or house payments; $1,947 average and $759,658 total for food and beverages; $1,216 average and $474,314 total for utilities and telephone; $232 average and $90,839 total for life insurance; $717 average and $279,724 total for gasoline and oil; and $517 average and $201,708 total for clothing.

Other staff members — $2,062 average and $1,010,419 total for rent or house payments; $1,841 average and $902,462 total for food and beverages; $1,197 average and $586,746 total for utilities and telephone; $395 average and $193,805 total for life insurance; $829 average and $406,367 total for gasoline and oil; and $538 average and $263,777 total for clothing.

Among the other types of expenditures included in the study are: homeowners or renters insurance; maintenance and other housing; soap, cosmetics and paper products; drugs and medicine; auto repair and maintenance; auto insurance; household appliances, etc.; sporting and recreation equipment; doctors and dentists; legal services; recreation; hobbies; contributions; and gifts.

Gasohol To Be Sold At Amoco Station

Beginning Feb. 12, gasohol will be distributed at the Murray Amoco Station on S. 12th Street, according to Joe Belcher, local Amoco distributor.

Belcher said he thinks it will be the first major brand station in west Kentucky to carry the mixture of 90 percent unleaded gasoline and 10 percent 200 proof denatured alcohol.

The alcohol raises the octane level of the unleaded gasoline from 87 to 91, Belcher said. He continued to say that vehicles run more efficiently with a higher level of octane.

The alcohol is being purchased from Archer, Daniels and Midland Alcohol of Decatur, Ill.

Amoco currently sells regular gas with an 89 octane level, unleaded regular with an 87 level and unleaded premium with a 93 level.

Belcher said he feels the use of gasohol can help the country get away from OPEC nations and aid area corn producers. He cited that corn is a major crop in west Kentucky and that 2½ gallons of alcohol can be produced from 1 bushel of corn.

The gas distributor opened a gasohol pump at a convenience food mart station in Mayfield about a week ago. He added customers have said their cars run better and receive better mileage.

Before deciding to open a gasohol pump, Belcher said he checked with several midwest Amoco dealers selling the product and some there have been no complaints about gasohol.

A shortage of alcohol has slowed some gasohol production, Belcher said. He added gasohol production could help farmers with the grain embargo against the Soviet Union.

Belcher said he hopes people will try the gasohol to help themselves and to help the corn producers.

Committee To Begin Scrutinizing Budget Of Education Department

By MARIA BRADEN
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Joint Appropriations and Revenue Committee was expected to begin scrutinizing the state Education Department's budget requests today in the first of a series of hearings to determine how much money state agencies will need in the next biennium.

Most of the action Monday was on the floor, with the first bill to pass both houses clearing the Kentucky Senate. With no discussion, the Senate voted 35-0 to raise by $1,500 sheriff's expense allowances. The measure, already passed by the House, now goes to the governor.

Meanwhile, the House voted 70-27 to approve a measure limiting the lieutenant governor's authority to act as governor when the governor is out of state.

The measure defines "absent from the state" as an absence that renders the governor temporarily incapable of performing an act that must be done immediately.

In order to act as governor, the lieutenant governor would have to make a good faith effort to notify the governor of the emergency and give him or her an opportunity to return to the state.

'Lights' Tickets Will Be On Sale At Door

Tickets will be on sale at the door for each performance of "Campus Lights," the annual student musical comedy production at Murray State University Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Roger Reichmuth, chairman of the Department of Music and faculty adviser, said the sale of tickets will begin at 7 p.m. for each evening performance and at 1:30 p.m. Sunday. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday and 3 p.m. Sunday in Lovett Auditorium.

Admission is $2 per person for the Thursday performance and $3.50 per person for the other performances. Reichmuth said a number of good seats are still available for the Thursday show.

Tickets are also still available for the reunion dinner Saturday evening for members of the cast of the first show in 1938. Open to anyone who wishes to attend, the dinner in the Old Recital Hall of the Price Doyle Fine Arts Center is $5 per person.

Reservations for the dinner will be accepted through Thursday or may be made in advance for any performance of "Campus Lights" by calling the Department of Music office at 762-4288.

Written, directed, and performed by a company of about 125 students, the production this year is the 43rd since the show was inaugurated. Proceeds go into a scholarship fund for incoming music students.

MHS Class To Give 'Huckleberry Finn'

The Murray High School Junior Class will present the play, Huckleberry Finn, on Saturday, Feb. 9, at 8 p.m. in the Murray Middle School auditorium.

A special preview performance will be presented for middle school students on Friday.

The play will feature Eddie Rogers in the title role of Huckleberry Finn, David Cooper as Tom Sawyer, and Lynne Outland as Aunt Sally. Linda Begley is the director.

The public is invited to attend the Saturday night performance, according to Lloyd Hasty, junior class sponsor. Admission will be $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students.

Tryouts End Tonight For Community Theatre Play

Tonight is the final session of tryouts for the Murray-Calloway County Community Theatre's upcoming dinner theatre production of Neil Simons' "The Good Doctor."

The show is scheduled for March 20, 21 and 22 in celebration of the Community Theatre's third anniversary.

According to production assistant Becky Wilson, no experience is necessary to try out for one of the many roles in the comedy. "This play is a very funny series of stories with a cast of five characters that range in age from 18 to 80 plus. We may expand the cast if we have another good turnout of talented people," Ms. Wilson said. The first session was held Monday night.

Auditions for "The Good Doctor" and "The You Ain't Seen Nothin' Yet Revue" will be held at 7 p.m. today in the meeting room of the Calloway County Public Library.

Although roles in "The Good Doctor" call for only actors and actresses, theatre director Richard Valentine said, "We will be needing singers, dancers, musicians and comedians for the revue that will be performed during dinner. Anyone interested in theatre in Calloway County is welcome to attend tonight," he continued.

Plans will be announced soon for a major children's theatre production and a series of classes for young people. Recorded program information is available by calling 753-7511.

AUDITIONS — Auditions for the Community Theatre's production of Neil Simon's "The Good Doctor" got underway Monday night. Volunteers read from the scene entitled "The Sneeze." Reading are (from left to right) Ben Moore, Bill Phillips, Ren Leys, Lewis Bossing and Sharon Owens. Another session will be held tonight beginning at 7 in the meeting room of the Murray-Calloway County Library. For more information, call 753-7511.

THE ACES

"There are two times in a man's life when he should not speculate: When he can't afford it and when he can." - Mark Twain.

East was forced to speculate in his defense of today's no trump game. There was no future in returning his partner's lead, so he had to choose between two other suits, both of which had been bid by the enemy.

North-South bid up the line to investigate a fit in all suits and, when none was found, they settled in the no-trump game.

West led the diamond 10 and dummy's jack went to East's ace. East speculated about what to return and he decided on spades. There was no future in diamonds, South had bid the hearts and the suit that dummy had bid looked very weak. So, quite correctly, East's choice of a spade shift was an excellent one.

Unfortunately for East, he did not go far enough in his analysis. He returned the spade deuce to West's king and a spade return to East's ace established three quick spade tricks. However, there was no way to cash a fourth spade and declarer was given his vulnerable game.

To defeat the game, East must play the spades to his best advantage. First the spade ace is cashed and next the spade deuce is led to West's king. This accomplishes two things.

Declarer's spade queen goes to West's king and, more important, the lead is

Miss Stacy Adams Is Married To Mr. Murdock In Church Ceremony

The wedding of Miss Stacy Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cody Adams of Farmington Route 1, and John Richard Murdock, son of Dr. and Mrs. John Murdock of Madison, Wisc., was solemnized in a winter wedding ceremony in the sanctuary of the Coldwater United Methodist Church.

Allen Dutton of Sao Paulo, Brazil, Church of Christ missionary, officiated at the double ring ceremony which was performed by candlelight. Jimmy and Linda Wilson presented a program of nuptial music with Mr. Wilson as pianist.

The sanctuary was centered with the unity candle decorated with a white dove carrying rust satin ribbons tied in love knots with tiny silk red rosebuds. A prayer bench was in the front centered with a Bible, a gift of the Rev. Jayne Shanklin, pastor of Coldwater Church, and his wife, which the couple used in the ceremony. Two Boston ferns in white pedestal containers were on either side of the prayer bench. Two seven branched candelabra completed the setting.

Lanch Adams, brother of the bride, and Larry Murdock, brother of the groom, Madison, Wisc., lighted the candles.

Bride's Dress
The bride, escorted by her father and given in marriage by her parents, wore a gown, designed by herself and made by her mother, fashioned of sate peau and overlaid with organza. The waist was gathered and tied with a wide sash. The off the shoulder bodice and the bell sleeves were each accented with a ruffle of chantilly lace.

Her headpiece, a flower ring of tiny rose buds, crowned the chapel length train of English illusion. Her attire was set off by a single strand of pearls borrowed from her mother.

Her bridal bouquet consisted of 15 silk red roses, wheat straw, baby's breath and tiny straw flowers with tiny rose buds cascading from the bouquet decorated with rust satin ribbons and chantilly lace. This bouquet and all the flowers used in the wedding were made by the bride's mother.

Attending her sister as matron of honor was Mrs. Twila Dunn who wore a formal gown of rust knit with a velvet bolero trimmed with lace. She carried a bouquet of silk roses placed on a palm leaf fan tied with satin rust ribbons.

Amanda Manning, cousin of the groom, was the flower girl. She wore a rust floral print dress accented by a lace trimmed bodice and flounce. She carried a wicker basket with the corsage on the handle and dropped rose petals.

Mr. and Mrs. John Richard Murdock

Mrs. Christine Murdock presided at the guest register. She was presented a corsage of silk roses.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Adams wore a two piece formal gown of brown knit. Mrs. Murdock, mother of the groom, wore a formal gown of dusty rose with a bolero trimmed in white feathers. Their corsages were of two silk roses.

Both fathers and Mr. Dutton had boutonnieres of red roses. Philip Murdock, grandfather of the groom, had a silk carnation boutonniere.

Mrs. Haru Adams and Mrs. Susie Wilson, grandmothers of the bride, and Mrs. Philip Murdock and Mrs. John Workman, grandmothers of the groom, were presented red silk carnation corsages.

Directing the wedding and the reception was Mrs. Lisa Adams, sister-in-law of the bride, who was also presented a red silk rose corsage.

Reception
Following the ceremony the bride's family were hosts for a reception held at the church with Renee Norwood, Pat Mitcheson, Pam Boggess, Judy Driskill and Darlene Coffey receiving the guests. Each one was presented a corsage of red silk carnations.

The bride's table, covered with a white linnet cloth, was centered by a candelabrum with an arrangement of silk roses. Fruit punch was served from a crystal punch bowl. Crystal appointments were used.

The three tiered wedding cake was decorated with a love duet, a pair of fluttering white doves perched upon two wedding bands, in front of a latticed open garden gate. On the top tier white doves were perched on sprays of sweet peas and red roses. Tiny wedding bells, tall filigree pillars and baskets of cascading roses completed the setting.

The groom's table was covered with a red lace cloth. The cake was chocolate, iced in mocha, decorated with a four-wheel drive Ford truck loaded with corn.

Rice bags of white net trimmed with rust satin ribbons were distributed to the guests.

After a wedding trip to Mammoth Cave National Park, Mr. and Mrs. Murdock are now residing at their home in the Proteus community, Murray Route 7.

Dr. Keith Heim Is Speaker At UDC Chapter Meet Here

The first meeting of the J.N. Williams Chapter of United Daughters of the Confederacy in 1980 was held Jan. 16 at 1:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn.

The president, Mrs. W.Z. Carter, presided and led the members in repeating the pledge of allegiance and salute to the flags of the United States, Kentucky State and the Confederacy which adorned the table. The grace was given by Dr. Mildred Hatcher.

The program was presented by Dr. Keith Heim who was introduced by Mrs. Leonard Vaughn. Dr. Heim, a native of Nebraska and a PhD graduate of North Carolina University, is head of Special Archives at Murray State University.

His subject was "The Union Defeat at Fredericksburg" which he said was one of the bloodiest battles of the War Between the States. Gen. Ambrose Burnside commanded the Army of the Potomac and held the stone bridge at Antietam which was an important post in that battle but his forces suffered great loss of life. Another casualty was the loss of prestige of his career in the Army.

However, Burnside made a comeback in civilian life and served as Governor of Rhode Island from 1866 to 1869 and from 1875 until his death he was a U.S. Senator. A whimsical facet of Gen. Burnside's personality was his custom of shaving his chin and allowing his beard to grow on the sides of his face and this is the origin of side whiskers being called "side burns," Dr. Heim said.

Members attending this meeting were Mrs. W. Z. Carter, Mrs. Hess Crossland, Mrs. N.A. Ezell, Dr. Mildred Hatcher, Mrs. William S. Major, Mrs. Lois Sammons, Mrs. Douglas Shoemaker, Mrs. Charles Stubblefield, Mrs. Leonard Vaughn and Dr. Halene Visser.

Jones & McCage Vows Are Read

Mr. and Mrs. John Russell McCage

Miss Polly Ann Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Jones, and John Russell McCage, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie E. McCage, all of Murray, were married in a December wedding at the First Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Roy E. Rabatin reading the double ring ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Maxine Clark, organist, and Miss Debra Geurin, vocalist.

The bride chose her sister, Miss Karen Jones, as her maid of honor and only attendant. Serving as best man was Don Guthrie. Ushers were Keith and Mark Barber, cousins of the groom.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. Serving the guests were Miss Linda Jones, Mrs. Nancy Orr and Mrs. Barbara Rogers. Miss Lisa Morton attended the guest register.

The new Mr. and Mrs. McCage are making their home in Albuquerque, New Mexico, where the groom is stationed with the United States Navy.

Down the Garden Path

By MRS. W. P. WILLIAMS

Statistics about flowers are interesting, especially when you compare someone else's idea with your own. I ran across a list of the ten most popular flowers that are planted by seed. These are the annuals, the ones that do not bloom again each year.

but must be replanted. The list was prepared by the National Garden Center but I don't know how they determined the result. Perhaps from the number of packages of seed sold.

Anyway, the Zinnia headed the list with Marigolds a close second. These are such hardy plants, easy to grow and will grow anywhere in the United States. So I can see why they came first. For if you want a profusion of blooms all summer long, these two plants will surely provide them.

Third was the... was a little surprised, but I know they are lovely and new colors and types are being brought out each year. They make fine porch boxes or planted in big pots in shady places.

The rest of the ten plants chosen were, Nasturtium, Alyssum, Asters, Morning Glory, Portulaca, Snapdragon and Sweet Peas. I would perhaps have changed the order of some of these. For instance I plant Portulaca every year, for I love the bright colors and the constant bloom. They love the hot dry places where it is hard for anything else to grow. Just give them a good loose soil and they ask for no more.

How would you list them? I would love to see twenty-five lists and see if any two were alike. Try some of them this summer, especially some you have not planted before. While thinking of flower statistics, do you know all the state flowers? Of course the Iris is the Tennessee state flower, but did you know the state wild flower is the Passion Flower, and the state tree is the Tulip Poplar, or Liriodendron. The bird of Tennessee is the Mockingbird, which won by a small margin over the Robin.

But did you know that Tennessee has a state ROCK. A group of schoolchildren decided there should be a special rock, so they appealed to the legislature suggesting the Limestone.

Walter Bennett To Speak At Gospel Fellowship Meet

The Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship will meet Saturday, Feb. 9 at 6 p.m. at the Gateway Steakhouse in

Class Meeting Held At Sinking Spring

The Willing Workers class of Sinking Spring Church held its January meeting at the church with five members present.

Carolyn Carroll, president, presided. The group decided to purchase a silk flower arrangement for the church to be used for showers and other social gatherings.

The devotional and program were given by Kathryn Starks. Refreshments were furnished by Debbie Darnell and served by Mary Turner and Linda Cooper. Pat Dalton was also present for the meeting.

Draffenville.

This month's speaker will be Walter Bennett of Dresden, Tenn. He is a Purina Dealer and has a hog feeding operation.

Bennett and his family have been active in the Lay Witness Mission Movement and have spoken in many churches throughout the area. In more recent years, he has become active in Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship and is a Field Representative at present.

The Fellowship meetings are held the second Saturday of each month at the Gateway Steakhouse in Draffenville. Meetings start with a buffet supper at 6 p.m. Everyone, including wives and children are welcome and no reservations are required, a spokesman said.

Roy Weatherly, A Good Principal

The recent decision by Roy Weatherly to step down as principal of Murray High School was received in these quarters with regret.

Weatherly, a native of Murray, has served admirably as the high school's chief administrative officer since assuming the post June 1, 1977.

Weatherly's decision to step down as principal was totally for personal and family reasons and we respect and admire him for reaching what must have been an extremely difficult decision.

Our feeling of regret on hearing of his decision was somewhat softened by his request to be reassigned to a professional position within the system.

A graduate of Murray High, Weatherly has been a tribute to the local school system since returning to his alma mater. We are glad he and his family have decided to remain in Murray. Our community needs his type of citizenship.

FROM THE

Congressional Record

$250 Rebate To Wood Burners

SENATOR JOHN A. DURKIN (N.H.)... The rapid escalation of fuel costs is a burden that weighs heavily on millions of consumers in New Hampshire, New England, and all over the Nation.

Moderate income Americans are experiencing budget-wrecking inflation. They have tightened their belts and made heroic efforts to reduce energy consumption only to witness fuel bills climb beyond their ability to pay.

"Low-income householders spent an estimated 30 percent of their incomes for energy last winter. Fuel that they were unable to afford then has nearly doubled in price over the past year, making their position even more distressing.

"The prospect of high prices and short supplies of heating fuel have led many low- and moderate-income Americans, especially in the Northeast to switch to wood to at least partially heat their homes. In New Hampshire alone over half the houses will be burning wood this winter."

"Over the last 7 years, the number of wood burning stoves in American homes has increased from 200,000 to 2,000,000. Wood is now the primary source of heat in over 1,000,000 households.

"A cord of firewood that sold for $55 last winter is already commanding as much as $100 this season. Estimates are that prices could reach $150 a cord in some areas of southern New England. We simply cannot allow this environmentally safe renewable alternative to foreign oil be priced out of the range of the hardworking homeowner."

"Today I am introducing legislation (S.2162) to give a refundable tax credit to Americans who heat their homes with wood. This credit will cover thirty percent of the cost of wood fuel up to $250. To insure that the credit will go to those for whom it is essential, the credit will be reduced by 1 percent of the consumer's adjusted gross income over $15,000. It is refundable, so low- and fixed-income consumers who owe no Federal income taxes will be eligible for a rebate to help defray the increased cost of firewood."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

The law of supply and demand has caught up with the supply of wood, in some areas, as a home heating fuel. The owner of a wood lot now demands the OPEC price equivalent for a cord of wood. The Government now controls the price of gasoline — will it decide to put controls on the price of wood for home heating?

Thoughts In Season

By Ken Wolf

"We have met the enemy and he is us," the comic strip character Pogo said many years ago. This statement is only one of the many ways of expressing the truth that we are, all too often, our own worst enemy.

The following words, equally pointed if not as concise as those of Pogo, were written by the Anglican mystic William Law (1686-1761):

Men are not in hell because God is angry with them; they are in wrath and darkness because they have done to the light, which infinitely flows forth from God, as that man does to the light of the sun, who puts out his own eyes.

The First 'Campus Lights' Built Around LeRoy Offerman Dance Band

Coming up is one of the truly traditional weekends at Murray State — "Campus Lights" weekend. Four performances of the 43rd production of this student-written-directed-and-produced musical will be presented in Lovett Auditorium.

In conjunction with it Saturday night will be a reunion dinner honoring the first "Campus Lights" cast. There were 44 students involved when the first show was presented May 10, 1938, on the same stage where the one will be presented this week.

That first "Campus Lights" was a delightful musical variety show. It was built around the LeRoy Offerman Dance Band and augmented by strings, voices, dancers and some "Olson & Johnson Blackouts." Several of the Offerman band members are expected to return to the campus for the reunion dinner.

LeRoy, now a successful insurance executive in Evansville, Ind., is active in Murray State alumni affairs. He returns to the campus often as a member of the alumni council, and his lanky figure and big smile are familiar ones at Racer athletic events.

Some years ago, he engineered a reunion of his college band members and most of them were here for it. At that time, he shared with me the story behind the LeRoy Offerman Dance Band, to which I danced many a time, and its days at Murray State Teachers College.

What time would be more appropriate to share some of them with you than this week as "Campus Lights" is being staged for the 43rd time to raise money with which to provide scholarships for deserving high school music students wishing — as LeRoy did in 1935 — to get a degree at Murray State.

It will take a couple or so columns to tell it as LeRoy told the story to me back about 1971, but I believe you will find it interesting, particularly to those who were Murray students at the time.

LeRoy grew up in Kankakee, Ill. He wanted to study music in college, but the two choices he had in Illinois — Illinois Wesleyan University and the Vandercook Conservatory in Chicago — were far beyond his financial means.

Down in Kentucky, though, there was a new and blossoming school which was rapidly gaining a reputation for its fine music program. It was Murray State Teachers College — 13 years old and proud of its recent name change from Murray State Normal School.

LeRoy already had a dance band, and it had just finished playing a summer engagement at the Seagirt Inn, Seagirt, N. J., when a hometown friend told him about Murray. "They needed someone to organize a quasi official dance band to work out of the college and to employ Murray students," he said.

He hurried to Murray where he met Price Doyle. Doyle soon convinced the lanky Illinoisan that a Murray dance band could be a way to ride out the depression as well as "lead to a 'sheepskin'."

LeRoy intended to take his Kankakee band to Murray virtually intact, but most of the brass and sax sections joined the band at Illinois Wesleyan. Things looked dark until, virtually at the last minute, Offerman received a telegram from Maurice Reed of Mayfield, a band booker.

Now a druggist and banker in Bardonia, Reed said in his telegram: "Have band for you to front stop bring sax and brass sections stop." A nine-piece band with only a rhythm section wasn't exactly a band, but LeRoy had his Murray band if he could come up with the other two-thirds.

The LeRoy Offerman Dance Band at Murray State was formed shortly afterwards in frantic, day-long rehearsals in the old Collegiate Inn (where Popeye Ross' service station is today) and with thanks to owner Lloyd Albritton and the ability of the bass fiddle player, Pope Johnson, who worked there part-time, to sell his boss on letting them practice at the popular campus hangout.

LeRoy reeled off the members of that first band as: John Thompson, 1st trumpet; Joe Coulter, 2nd trumpet; Morris Carter, trombone; Eddie West, 1st alto sax; Karl Ivan, tenor sax; Bill Carrier, 2nd alto sax; Paul Bryant, piano; Paul Antibus, drums, and Johnson, bass fiddle. Offerman's role was to play the trombone occasionally and smile at the customers.

Their first weekend together, they were booked for a Friday night dance for the Chemistry Club and for Saturday and Sunday nights at the White City Park at Herrin, Ill. Yet, five of the nine instrumentalists had never played dance band music!

Fortunately, they had Paul Bryant, a brilliant pianist and arranger. Paul also is expected here for the reunion dinner Saturday night.

Offerman had Paul play an "Eddy Duchin" style introduction, then the entire band would play the first 16 bars or so, leaving the sax section "to sweat out" the rest of the chorus. On the next chorus, he said, the brass would open the first few phrases and the saxes would take over. "Everybody would blow the third chorus," he said.

For an edging, Bryant would play what they called "a society ending" with the band pouncing on the last three notes or holding out the last chord long and loud with symbols ringing — much the same style as used by a big name band of the day led by Dick Jurgens.

The more popular tunes were played at least twice and often more. This enabled the band to "stretch out the library" for the evening.

The Chemistry Club dance, held on the stage of the auditorium, was a huge success. The same Jim Allison, who today is a top executive of Texas Gas at Owensboro, had to guarantee the faculty sponsor, Dr. A. T. Hicks, that there would be no smoking in the building, no drinking ANYWHERE and no smooching in or out of it.

The band played that dance on commission, expecting the worse, but realized its biggest haul of the year.

The following Monday morning, a delegation of ministers from the Murray churches called on Dr. James H. Richmond, the college's president, and demanded a halt to such brazen goings on.

"I don't know what took place in that meeting," said Offerman, "but that weekend established the LeRoy Offerman Dance Band at a quasi-official representative of Murray State Teachers College."

In Thursday's column, I will share with you some of the band's experiences as it played and promoted Murray State through the dance engagements it played across West Kentucky and the five states adjoining it.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Feb 5, the 36th day of 1980. There are 330 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Feb. 5, 1976, almost 23,000 people died in an earthquake in Guatemala. On this date:

In 1811, the insanity of King George III prompted the British Regency Act, whereby the Prince of Wales became prince regent.

In 1945, American troops under General Douglas MacArthur entered Manila.

In 1971, the Apollo 14 crew landed on the moon.

In 1979, thousands of farmers drove their tractors into Washington, snarling the capital's traffic and demonstrating for better farm legislation.

Ten years ago, Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma was about to resign as chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Five years ago, President Gerald Ford urged Congress to reconsider its cutoff of military aid to Turkey.

Last year, the Ayatollah Khomeini named Mehdi Bazargan as Iran's provisional revolutionary prime minister.

Today's birthdays: Former baseball great Hank Aaron is 46. Newspaper publisher Arthur Ochs Sulzberger is 54.

Looking Back

10 Years Ago

"An unexpected snow fell during the night covering Calloway County under about one inch of snow and closing Calloway County Schools once again. The county schools have now been closed for 10 days and the Murray City Schools for two days due to the weather conditions.

Deaths reported include Norman Aubrey Ray, 52, and Richard Bradley Cope, infant son.

Master Sgt. Patrick James Estes has been promoted to his present rank while serving with the Marine Corps in the Republic of Korea. His wife, the former Brenda Brandon, and their three children are residing in Murray while he is in Korea.

Kenneth A. Grogan who begun his work with the ASCS here in Calloway County in 1937 has been transferred to Floyd County to work in several far eastern Kentucky counties. He will be located in Prestonsburg.

Births reported include a boy, Stephen Patrick, to Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Joe Tricarico on Jan. 20.

"How To Commit Marriage" starring Bob Hope, Jackie Gleason and Jane Wyman is showing at the Capri Theatre.

20 Years Ago

Charles Shuffett, partner in Murray Radio Station WNBS, was presented the award as "Outstanding Young Man of the Year" at the Murray Jaycees Distinguished Service Award and Bosses' Banquet held at the Triangle Inn. John Sammons is club president.

An average of $35.71 was reported on the sale of dark fired tobacco on the Murray Market yesterday.

Mrs. Lyndia Nicks, local dance instructor, is attending a meeting of the Chicago National Association of Dance Masters at Chicago, Ill.

Births reported include a girl, Karen Kaye, to Mr. and Mrs. Willie Jackson on Jan. 14.

Mrs. Koska Jones will direct the book study on Luke for the Women's Society of Christian Services of the Hazel and Mason's Chapel United Methodist Churches.

Hams are listed as selling for 25 cents per pound in the ad for Parker's Food Market this week.

30 Years Ago

Murray Fire Chief William Spencer said that the first class of the recently formed Rescue Squad will graduate Feb. 7. The men will be presented cards signifying that they have successfully completed the course on first aid.

Deaths reported include A. G. (Uncle Joe) Jackson, 80.

A Mission Sunday School Class has been organized by the First Baptist Church in the old broom factory at Five Points. The building has been leased by the church, according to the pastor, the Rev. Dr. H. C. Chiles, who said that classes will be held each Sunday at 2 p.m.

The Rev. Bill Lowery will speak Sunday at the Oak Grove Baptist Church.

In high school basketball games Lone Oak beat Murray High, Hardin beat Kirksey, Lynn Grove beat Benton, and Hazel beat New Concord. High team scorers were Herndon for Lone Oak, Jeffrey for Murray High, Gardner and York for Hardin, Usrey for Kirksey, Miller and Darnell for Lynn Grove, Combs for Benton, Taylor, Lamb, White and Grogan for Hazel, and Steele for New Concord.

IRS Alerts Taxpayers To Check Withholding

If you claimed additional withholding allowances on the last Form W-4, "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate," you filed with your employer, the Internal Revenue Service advises you to check the October 1979 version of the form.

After checking the new form, which reflects recent changes in the law, you may need to make some adjustments and claim fewer withholding allowances, since the new income tax withholding rate could cause you to have an unexpected balance due the IRS when you file your income tax return.

Persons most likely to have claimed additional allowances in the past to avoid having too much tax withheld are those who anticipated large amounts of excess itemized deductions.

Tips On Tips

For convenience, the IRS furnishes free special forms called Document 3635 "Employee's Daily Record of Tips and Report of Tips to Employer," which contains Forms 4070A "Employee's Report On Tips," to help keep a running record of tips—both those received directly in cash and those received from credit cards. The reports are due by the 10th of each month for the preceding month, unless that day falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday. In that case, the reporting date is the next business day.

When employees report tips of $20 or more, the employer must withhold social security tax and any income tax due on them.

For additional information on reporting tips, the IRS offers Publication 505, "Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax," available free by using the handy mail-order coupon in the tax package or from local IRS offices.

Employees should be aware that usually tips are subject to Federal income and Social Security or Railroad Retirement taxes, and must be included as part of taxable income, the Internal Revenue Service notes.

Failure to correctly report gratuities can result in a penalty equal to 50 percent of the tax, according to the IRS.

If an employee receives less than $20 a month in tips while working for one employer, he or she need not report the amount to the employer. However, these employees must include all tips as part of taxable income for the year.

On the other hand, if an employee receives $20 or more in tips in a month while working for one employer, he or she must make a monthly report to the employer on Form 4070, "Employee's Report of Tips to Employer," or a similar statement.

Insulated? Check the energy tax credit.

Credit To Energy Savers

Taxpayers who take certain steps to save energy in their homes can cut their income tax bills by up to $2,500, the Internal Revenue Service says.

The law provides for a tax credit of up to $300 for energy conservation materials installed in the home, with a separate credit of as much as $2,200 for taxpayers who install "renewable" energy systems to replace gas pilot lights, and clock thermostats.

source devices such as solar or wind equipment. The smaller credit is figured at 15 percent of the first $2,000 spent on such items as storm or thermal windows and doors, insulation, weatherstripping and caulking. Also qualifying are "furnace" replacement burners, flue-opening modifications, electrical or mechanical ignition systems to replace gas pilot lights, and clock thermostats.

Changes in Tax Law Affect Returns

For this income tax filing season there are some new provisions in the tax law which may affect how you file your return. The Internal Revenue Service says:

As was the case last year, every person who files a return has a minimum of income which is not subject to tax. This amount is called the "zero" bracket amount (ZBA). For 1979, however, the zero bracket amount has been increased. The degree of increase depends upon the taxpayer's filing status. For example, a single taxpayer's zero bracket amount is $3,400, a married taxpayer's is $5,000, and for married taxpayers filing jointly it's $7,000. For married taxpayers filing separately, the ZBA of $1,700, an increase of $100 over the 1978 figure of $1,600.

In addition to the increased zero bracket figure, the amount allowed for each exemption a taxpayer claims has been increased to $1,000, compared to the 1978 figure of $750. However, the general tax credit expired at the end of 1978.

As a result of changes in the ZBA and the amounts for personal exemptions, the following new filing levels have been established: $3,300 for singles and heads of households and $5,400 for married couples both under 65 filing a joint return. If one spouse is 65 or over, the filing level for the couple is $6,400 and it's $7,400 for marrieds both of whom are 65 or over. If filing a joint return, if married and filing a separate return, the filing level is $1,000.

Changes apply to credits and deductions available too. Starting with the 1979 tax year, a taxpayer who itemizes deductions can no longer deduct state and local taxes imposed on the sale of gasoline or other motor fuel for personal use. Another item no longer deductible is a political contribution. However, a taxpayer now may claim a tax credit of up to $50 ($100 on a joint return) for contributions to candidates for public office and political committees. In effect, the new law has doubled the allowable credit.

Tax Advice for Itemizing Deductions

While the IRS encourages as many taxpayers as possible to use the simpler 1040A form, there will be millions of taxpayers who will find it to their advantage to itemize deductions on the 1040 form.

Generally, if you paid interest on itemizing home ownership and taxes on a home you own, had unusually large uninsured medical and dental expenses during the year, made large contributions to qualified charitable organizations, or had major uninsured casualty losses, what this means is that you will probably have itemized deductions totaling more than the zero bracket amount appropriate to your filing status.

Taxpayers who itemize deductions must reduce their adjusted gross income by their excess itemized deductions to arrive at their taxable income. Excess itemized deductions are the amount by which total itemized deductions exceed the zero bracket amount. For example, a married couple filing jointly, with itemized deductions of $5,500, would subtract their zero bracket amount of $3,400 from the $5,500 in order to determine their excess itemized deductions of $2,100.

Although adjusted gross income is reduced by only the excess itemized deductions, all deductions are allowed. This is because the zero bracket amount is incorporated into the Tax Tables and the Tax Rate Schedules.

Itemized deductions are nonbusiness deductions. If you itemize your deductions, you must file Form 1040 and fill in Schedule A (Form 1040). Schedule A provides space for listing deductible medical and dental expenses, charitable contributions, taxes, interest paid, casualty or theft losses, and miscellaneous items such as union dues.

If you itemize, you must keep a record of your deductible items, including cancelled checks and receipts. This will verify your expenses should the Internal Revenue Service examine your return. It will also help you determine whether your itemized deductions are greater than your zero bracket amount.

Taxpayers who itemize can take advantage of many deductible expenses. Here's a brief explanation from the IRS of some types of deductions available.

Charitable Contributions

Generally, you may deduct contributions you paid to any qualified organization established and operated exclusively for charitable, religious, educational, scientific, or literary purposes or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals. If the contributions are for the support of religious, educational, or scientific purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, the contributions are deductible for all taxpayers. If the contributions are for the support of religious, educational, or scientific purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, the contributions are deductible for all taxpayers.

This means that you may deduct your contributions to most religious organizations, a community fund, Boy Scouts, the YMCA, the Red Cross, the American Cancer Society, CARE, Veterans of Foreign Wars, etc. You may not deduct contributions to civic leagues or chambers of commerce.

If you donate property other than money, the IRS expects you to base your deduction on the fair market value of the property, that is, the property tax, and general sales tax. Bear in mind, the gasoline tax is no longer deductible.

Not all tax deductions are obvious—don't overlook any

Remember, the tax on major purchases, such as a car, truck, or boat, or materials purchased to build a new home, generally can be deducted in addition to the table amount. Personal property taxes assessed by some states, especially on cars, may be deductible if they are based on the value of the property and imposed annually. The 1979 Optional State Sales Tax Tables are a convenient reference for determining the amount you may be able to deduct for those taxes. No Federal taxes are deductible on your Federal income tax return.

For Special Situations There Is Special Tax Help

If you say "1040" or "1040A" at tax time, almost everyone will recognize that it is not a form, but the name of the common tax forms sent out by the Internal Revenue Service to taxpayers all over the country. While those forms are a common denominator for most individuals who file tax returns, IRS also has special services, rules, and publications for certain groups of taxpayers whose tax situations are peculiar to them.

Farmers and fishermen. That is, those with at least 2 1/2 of their estimated gross income for the tax year from farming or fishing (or for 1979 and later years, at least 2 1/2 of the gross income shown on the tax returns for the preceding tax year from farming or fishing) get a break paying estimated taxes. They may file their estimated taxes on Form 1040-ES and pay this amount by January 15, then file their Form 1040 and pay any balance due by April 15. The alternative is to file their income tax returns and pay the taxes due on or before March 1, in which case the Form 1040 will be considered the declaration of estimated tax. Farmers and fishermen are not to be confused, however, with employees of farms and fisheries.

Further information of interest to farmers and fishermen can be found in the free IRS Publication 225, "Farmer's Tax Guide," and Publication 595, "Tax Guide for Commercial Fishermen."

Small business operators have special tax situations, particularly if they have employees. Before actually going into business, persons planning to start their own business should contact IRS for Publication 454, "Your Business Tax Kit." The kit or folder contains forms and publications with all the information a new business person will need. Of particular value in this package is IRS Publication 334, "Tax Guide for Small Business."

IRS also sponsors Small Business Workshops, where individuals can learn their tax obligations and how to fulfill them as well as their tax rights and how to take advantage of them. Many small business persons find these workshops especially valuable for learning ways to cut down on their tax liability. The IRS also explains what the small business person can do if he or she is headed for tax trouble and can't pay a tax bill.

Most small business persons are not covered by company pension plans; they would be able to get information on setting up their own retirement plans from Publication 590, "Tax Information on Individual Retirement Arrangements."

Retirees and annuitants who receive pensions and annuities sometimes need special assistance. Most pensions usually fall under the "Three Year Rule." That is, a retiree will recover his or her contributions within 36 months. During that period, the pension is not taxable. It has already been taxed as salary or wages during the person's working years.

However, when the contributions have been completely received, the pension then becomes fully taxable.

If a person does not adhere to the Three Year Rule, the formula for determining taxability is quite different and a bit complex. This is true also of annuities. Usually the company paying out the pension or annuity will calculate the taxable and nontaxable portions, based on the recipient's age, life expectancy, and other relevant factors.

Full information is available in IRS Publication 575, "Pension and Annuity Income." For Civil Servants, there is IRS Publication 567, "Tax Information on U.S. Civil Service Retirement and Disability Retirement," and for those with tax-sheltered annuities, Publication 571, "Tax Sheltered Annuity Programs for Employees of Public Schools and Certain Tax-Exempt Organizations."

All of the publications these are just a few of the over 50 available can be ordered by mail, using the order form in the tax package or by calling the IRS number listed in the local telephone directory. At most convenient, they can also be picked up at many IRS offices.

Many groups of taxpayers do have special tax situations. Anyone who has questions or who needs any information on tax matters should be aware that help can be obtained by calling the local IRS office. There is, of course, no charge for this assistance.

Sale of Home Benefit For Taxpayers at Age 55

Individuals age 55 and older are allowed a one-time exclusion of up to $100,000 of profit on the sale of their principal residence, the Internal Revenue Service says. This exclusion applies to sales after July 26, 1978.

The IRS notes that this exclusion applies to the sale of that which has been an individual's principal residence for 3 out of 5 years, or 5 out of 8 years if the individual is 65 years of age or older.

Additional information is available free in IRS Publication 523, "Tax Information on Selling or Buying Your Home," by filling out the order blank found in the tax package, or from local IRS offices.

Form Available To Amend Return

If, after you have filed your return, you discover that you made a mistake, you may be able to correct it. To correct such errors, the IRS advises, prepare Form 1040X, "Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return," and send it to the address shown on the instructions for that form.

An amended return usually must be filed within 3 years from the date that the original return was filed or was due, or within 2 years from the time the tax was paid, whichever date is later.

Tax Tips Make Useful Tools For Tax Return Preparation make the instructions less technical, and easier to read and understand.

TAX TIP #4: Review the form carefully. IRS advises taxpayers that many of them can do their own tax returns. If they take it carefully, line by line, because of IRS efforts to simplify the forms, and because of changes in tax law, the forms do change a little from year to year. Certainly, all of the lines will not apply to all taxpayers, but an over-looked line can be a costly mistake.

TAX TIP #5: Check back over basis. Make sure the information is on the correct line. Double check for math errors and for transposed numbers — it's easy to write 47 when the correct number should be 74. A few extra minutes spent checking accuracy can save you hours in the long run.

TAX TIP #6: Check attachments. If you're using additional schedules or forms, such as a Schedule A if you itemize, be sure your name and Social Security number are on each. Attach schedules in alphabetical order and forms in numerical order. Staple W-2's (Copy B) securely in the space for them on the front of the Form 1040 or 1040A. If you should inadvertently omit any of the required documents, wait until IRS notifies you. If you forgot to include wages for a late-arriving W-2, however, you will be required to file an amended return.

TAX TIP #7: Sign the return. A "return" with no signature is not a properly filed return, and as such must be returned to the taxpayer for a signature — a sure way to slow down a refund. Remember, on a joint return, two signatures are required.

TAX TIP #8: Use the peel-off label and the coded envelope. Both the label and the envelope are

Don't Wait 'Til April 15, IRS Says

Why file early when you've got until April 15 this year to mail your tax return to the IRS? Here are two good reasons.

First, if you're expecting a refund, why wait much longer than necessary to claim and receive it? Normally, fewer people file early in the year, permitting Internal Revenue Service Centers to process returns and mail out refunds in four to five weeks. It can take ten weeks or longer for a return filed in April when the processing workload is much heavier.

Second, taxpayers filing close to the deadline are more apt to make mathematical errors due to lack of time to check calculations on their returns. Errors slow down processing, delay refunds, and often require correspondence between IRS and the taxpayer.

Employers' Tax Break, With Jobs Tax Credit

Employers can get a substantial "tax break" by qualifying for the Targeted Jobs Tax Credit. The Internal Revenue Service says that the credit is similar to the one for the Targeted Jobs Tax Credit, but it is subject to a $100,000 overall limitation.

An especially appealing feature of the Job Credit according to the IRS is that claiming the credit on a Federal income tax return may be worth up to an additional $1,000 per certified employee for the employer's first year of employment, and up to $1,500 per certified employee for the employer's second year of employment.

The Targeted Jobs Tax Credit is based on the number of new jobs created by the employer. The credit is based on the number of new jobs created by the employer, and is available to employers who create new jobs in certain industries.

Local agencies which will certify members of these target groups are the state employment service and qualified schools offering a qualified cooperative education program.

More information about the Targeted Jobs Tax Credit appears in the free IRS Publication 906, "Targeted Jobs and WIN Credits," available by using the handy order coupon in the tax package or from your local IRS office.

Common Errors Can Be Avoided

Before you mail your income tax return, check to be sure that you have:

- Transferred the peel-off address label to your return, and made any necessary corrections in your name, address, and social security number.
- Attached Wage and Tax Statement.
- Attached all your tax schedules.
- Rechecked your return to make sure you have made no mistakes in your arithmetic.
- Signed your return on a joint return, both husband and wife must sign.
- Attached your check or money order, payable to "Internal Revenue Service," if you owe additional tax, and have written your social security number on your check or money order as well as the kind of tax (i.e., "income") and period for which it is being paid (i.e., "12/79").
- Addressed the envelope to the correct Internal Revenue Service Center or, better yet, use the envelope that came with your tax forms package. And, be sure to file your return by April 15, 1980.

Pay for child care? Look into the Child Care Credit.

Deferred Gain on Home Sale Must Be Reported

Homeowners who sell or exchange a personal residence and postpone paying taxes on any gain from the sale must report the transaction in the same year the Internal Revenue Service said.

The sale must be reported using Form 219, "Sale or Exchange of Personal Residence," available by using the handy coupon in the tax package or from local IRS offices. If a taxable gain results, Schedule D, Capital Gains and Losses (Form 1040), must also be used.

The IRS said it will begin monitoring the returns of taxpayers whose circumstances suggest a sale which should be reported, such as a return showing a change of address and a real estate deduction, but without the required form attached.

Generally, the gain from the sale of a principal residence is not taxed at the time of sale if a replacement residence is purchased and occupied within 18 months (24 months if constructed by the taxpayer) before or after the sale of the home. However, if you constructed a new residence, the construction must have begun no later than 18 months after the sale of your home, and you must occupy it as your principal residence not later than 2 years after the sale of your home. Also, the cost of the new residence, whether purchased or constructed, must be at least as much as the adjusted selling price of the old home to postpone tax on all the gain. If the cost of the new residence is less you may be able to postpone part of the tax.

The tax may be postponed, IRS said, but not forgotten. Any gain realized from the sale must be subtracted from the cost or basis of the replacement residence, thus lowering its basis. In the long run, lowering the basis will increase the amount of the gain that will result from the eventual sale of the replacement home. For example, a home purchased for $30,000 sells for $40,000, results in a gain of $10,000. A replacement residence is bought within 18 months for $50,000. The $10,000 gain from the first house must be subtracted from the basis of the new house ($50,000 - $10,000 = $40,000). If the second house is eventually sold for $65,000 and not replaced, the owner must pay a tax on $25,000 ($65,000 - $40,000), the combined gain from both homes, unless the owner is at least 55 years of age and eligible to elect the exclusion. The IRS pointed out that the sale must be reported.

Surviving Spouse—

In many cases, when a spouse dies, the survivor may use the tax rates that apply to a joint return for two tax years following the year of death. But these rates may be used only if the survivor could have filed a joint return for the year of death, had the spouse not died, and maintained in his or her home a surviving spouse, or stepdaughter for whom he or she is entitled to a dependency exemption.

Child Care Change More Eligible

More taxpayers can claim the credit for child or disabled dependent care expenses on their 1979 tax return as a result of a change in the law, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Payments made to a relative, including a grandparent, unless the relative is the taxpayer's dependent child or under 19 years of age, now qualify for the credit.

These payments to relatives may have to be covered under social security.

The child care credit is available to married couples who file jointly, where one spouse works full-time and the other works part-time or is a full-time student, or where both work part-time. The credit also applies to a divorced or separated parent who has custody of a child under 15, even though the parent may not be entitled to a dependency exemption for the child. The parent claiming the credit must, however, have custody for a longer period during the year than the other parent. A deserted spouse is eligible for the credit when the deserting spouse is absent for the last six months of the taxable year.

The credit is 20 percent of eligible expenses. The maximum credit that may be taken is limited to $400 for one dependent and to $800 for two or more dependents.

To qualify for the child and disabled dependent care tax credit, a taxpayer (1) must be employed or in active search of employment while paying for the child's or disabled dependent's care, (2) must have incurred the expense in order to be gainfully employed, and (3) must have maintained a household that included one or more qualifying individuals. Qualifying individuals are dependent children under 15 years of age, a disabled spouse of a disabled dependent of any age.

To claim the credit, taxpayers must file Form 1040, even if they do not itemize deductions. The credit is computed on Form 2442, which should be attached to the return.

Additional information is available in the free IRS Publication 503, "Child and Disabled Dependent Care," which may be ordered by filling out the order blank in the tax package or from your local IRS office.

At 51, Howe Still Signing Autographs

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — They asked for "just one more autograph," and Gordie Howe obliged. They asked "just one more picture, Gordie, please," and he offered yet another wooden smile, perhaps his two hundredth of the National Hockey League All-Star Banquet.

For a moment, the crowd around him abated, and Vaclav Nedomansky of the Detroit Red Wings walked up to the hockey legend. The Czech-born center introduced his wife and said, "I've always enjoyed your city. It's our home now."

Howe doesn't play here anymore, but he did for 25 indescribable years. At 51, a Hartford Whaler now, he returns but not to "his" city as a member of the Prince of Wales Conference All-Stars — his 23rd appearance in a game that has been played only nine times without him.

And, practiced now in this annual speech, he says it still is a thrill. He stood at the microphone before the adoring audience at the banquet and said he'd like to thank "a young man named Scotty Bowman," a fellow five years Howe's junior and coach of the Wales squad that seeks its fifth consecutive victory tonight over the Clarence Campbell stars.

Tonight Howe makes a record appearance to go along with his record for All-Star goals (10), assists (8), total points, and penalty minutes (25). He'll play with Minnesota left wing Steve Payne and Boston center Jean Ratelle, at 39 the only other Wales star who has been born when Howe made his first All-Star showing in 1948.

The crowd is expected to surpass the alleged world record attendance of 20,009 who showed up in St. Louis for a 1973 Blues game. The people of Gordie Howe's city will pay him homage...even if as Howe put it, his appearance was "a gift."

Meanwhile, the players and owners were to meet again to discuss the issue of free agency, but the athletes spent so much of their meeting Monday on the tenure of executive director Alan Eagleson, they spent about "two minutes" on compensation.

Eagleson, however, received a unanimous vote of confidence through the 1982 season, and a search committee was named to find his successor.

Kirk Finds Out What It's Like To Be On Other Side

By The Associated Press

Memphis State Coach Dana Kirk found out what it is like to be sitting on the opposing bench when Louisville's basketball machine is revving.

Kirk, a former assistant at Louisville, brought his Memphis State team to Louisville on Monday, and for a bit over a half looked to be in contention for an upset win.

But that thought was buried amid the tumult of a 22-2 Louisville run that helped lift the Cardinals to an 88-60 Metro Conference victory.

In the other Monday game involving a Kentucky major, Sam Ellis scored 25 points and guard Carlton Neverson hit two key free throws to pace Pittsburgh to a 80-78 college basketball victory over Eastern Kentucky. James Tillman led Eastern with 27 points.

Louisville guard Darrell Griffith was the main villain with 31 points.

"Darrell did the things that you'd want people ordinarily to do," Kirk said. "He shot the ball from 25 (feet) sometimes and 23 other times....But you can't give Darrell Griffith anything. He's a great shooter, whether he's falling away or whatever, he still has the same release."

"He is absolutely the finest basketball player or guard that I've seen on the year, and if he's not the premiere guard in the country, I don't know who is," Kirk said.

Lady Tigers Fall 54-39 After Marshall On Ropes

By STEVE BECKER
Sports Writer

The Murray High Lady Tigers had the region's top-ranked team, Marshall County, on the ropes during the third quarter, but eventually fell victim to the powerful Law-women, 54-39, at the old Benton high school last night.

The loss was just the fifth of the year, against 11 wins, for the young Tigers. Marshall County upped its slate to a perfect 13-0 for the season.

Trailing 24-21 at the intermission, Murray fired in the first six points of the second half to grab a 27-24 lead at the 5:43 mark of the period. Two baskets by Tonya Alexander and a long jumper by Starr Jones provided the necessary firepower for the Tigers.

Murray managed to hold the upperhand for the next few minutes on the strength of its bounding defense. The superior outside shooting of the Marshalls, however, began to take its toll as the period wore on.

Three consecutive long jumpers by Marshall County's Shanna Smith, and some twisting drives by Lori Barrett, enabled the home team to settle into a comfortable ten-point lead, 42-32, at the third stop. The much smaller Tigers simply could not contend with the Marshall rebounding prowess as the Law-women frequently got two and three shots on each trip down the floor.

Murray head coach Rick Fisher commented on the loss, saying, "We played a real fine game. I think we ran out of gas a little there at the end. We came into the game with two things on our mind. We knew we had to stop their guards from scoring so much, and we knew that we would have to rebound evenly with them. We just couldn't get the job done," he sighed.

The Tigers were beaten to the tune of a 35-23 margin on the boards as Barrett and sophomore Laura Seay hauled down nine caroms apiece for the Marshalls. Fisher spoke in awe of Seay offering, "she is the best sophomore that I have ever seen play. I think she made the difference in the ball game."

Seay came off the bench to sub for Marshall's star center Barbara Faughn, when Faughn got into early foul trouble. The sophomore phenom was a continual thorn in the Tigers' paw throughout the second half as she pulled down a fistful of important offensive boards.

Likewise, the Tigers had little success stopping the hot-shooting Marshall guards. Barrett and Mitzi Birdsong combined for 30 of their team's points, with Barrett leading all scorers with 21 tallies.

Alexander was the only Murray player able to get more than six points. The talented center finished the game with 17 points and earned some plaudits from her coach.

"Tonya has been playing since the Mayfield game on an ankle that looks like a balloon," Fisher explained.

"She had ice on it on the bus trip up here in the hopes that she could play. She is just some kind of competitor. She really comes to win."

Despite Alexander's heroics, the Tigers could not keep pace with the First Region power. Murray fell victim to cold shooting in the first period, trailing 14-8 at its close. Alexander fired in nine of the Tiger's 13 second period tallies to spark a late first half rally.

The tenacious Tiger defense forced the Marshalls into numerous — second stanza turnovers, allowing the locals pull to within three, 24-21, at the half.

Fisher praised the Marshalls and acknowledged that they were definitely one of the strongest teams in the region. He was also quick to say, however, that the Tigers are still a young team and that they have their best days still in front of them.

"We are off to our best start in years," Fisher said. "We only have five losses, and they have been to the powers of the region, (two losses each to Calloway County and Marshall County and a defeat to Lowes). We definitely are going to get tougher as we play together more."

The Tigers are idle until February 11 when they will travel to Heath.

Murray High's junior varsity tied the score at 18-all with 1:44 left in the third period, but could not manage to hit another point as it fell to Marshall 34-18.

The Tigers trailed at the half, 16-14, but put four quick points on the board in the third period to draw into the tie. Unfortunately for Murray, the Tigers went the remaining 7:44 without a tally.

Glenda Fox led the Tigers with six points. Monica Green and Velvet Jones added four apiece for Murray.

DeVoe And Nash Cool Off After Flareup At UK Game

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — With once-flared tempers now cool, Kevin Nash will likely keep his starting job at center when Tennessee entertains Florida in a Southeastern Conference basketball game Wednesday.

Nash's status became a question mark when he and Coach Don DeVoe started shouting at each other last Saturday after the Volunteers' 83-75 loss to Kentucky at Lexington. The loss was the fifth straight for the Vols.

"The situation hasn't changed any with Kevin," DeVoe said Monday after meeting with Nash. "He is as he was before, on the basketball team and in a position to try and get us out of this midseason slump we're having."

Nash, a 6-foot-10 junior from Trenton, Mich., and Kentucky's LaVon Williams were caught fighting and ejected from the game Saturday with four minutes left in the first half.

Games Postponed

The Murray High and Calloway County basketball games scheduled for tonight have been postponed due to bad weather.

The Murray game against Marshall County has been moved up to this Thursday night while the Calloway at Lone Oak has been postponed until February 15.

Nash, who is averaging six points and four rebounds a game, at one point last Saturday wondered if he was still a member of the team. DeVoe said the situation never deteriorated to that point.

UK-Ole Miss Game Reminiscent Of 108-Rebound Game In 1964

By CHARLES WOLFE
Associated Press Writer

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) —

With a share of the Southeastern Conference basketball lead at stake in Wednesday night's game between Kentucky and Mississippi, a moment of silence for a game played 16 years before is probably too much to ask.

Nonetheless, this week marks the anniversary of a Kentucky-Ole Miss game that is worth remembering.

Kentucky currently is tied for the SEC lead with Louisiana State. That also was the case Feb. 8, 1964, when then-coach Eddie Crawford brought his Rebels into Memorial Coliseum.

Crawford's star was Don Kessinger, who was averaging 25.3 points per game and bidding to take the SEC individual scoring title from Kentucky's Cotton Nash, who was averaging 26.9.

Ole Miss was struggling, but Crawford figured the Rebels at least had a chance with Kessinger.

"We just hope we're hot," Crawford said. "We feel we can give anybody a good game on a given night. And we don't feel we're going to get blown out of the gym."

Kentucky won 102-59. The margin was indeed impressive, but it nearly obscured a truly staggering statistic — Kentucky's 108 rebounds. That mark stands as the NCAA record. It may also rank with Johnny Vandermeer's consecutive no-hitters and Bob Beamon's long jump in terms of sheer miraculousness.

It is ironic that Kentucky's legendary coach, Adolph Rupp, employed a zone defense that night, given his ill-disguised contempt for anything other than a tight man-to-man.

It is further ironic that Kessinger, a fine player who later enjoyed a long career in professional baseball, should have been the goat of that game.

He figured prominently in Kentucky's rebounding total by missing 18 of his 19 shots and finished with just five points.

Calloway Girls JV And Boys Frosh Win

The Calloway County junior varsity girls and freshman boys swept two games from Benton last night, by scores of 41-24 and 57-42.

For the girls, Rachel Lamb and Marcey Miller led the scoring and rebounding with 10 points apiece and 10 and nine rebounds, respectively.

The win gave the Calloway girls a 7-4 record and left Benton at 7-3.

The freshman boys raised their record to 11-1 behind the scoring of Craig Darnell and Bryan Tebbitts and the rebounding of Tebbitts. Darnell scored 14 points while Tebbitts scored 13 and pulled off 13 rebounds.

Calloway shot a very impressive 54.2 percent in leading at the end of every quarter.

The two teams will play again Thursday night, starting with the junior varsity girls game at 6:30 p.m.

Jesse Owens Faces Tough Battle

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

While the country wrestles with the dilemma of boycotting the Moscow Olympics, all of us should pause a moment and give a thought to perhaps the greatest Olympian of them all, Jesse Owens.

Jesse, now 66, has had to fight most of his life. Son of an Alabama sharecropper, he has had to overcome bias in this country and slurs of being "of an inferior race" when he invaded Berlin for the 1936 Nazi Olympics.

The swift, coordinated black athlete shamed Adolf Hitler by winning four gold medals and overcame numerous obstacles to emerge as a successful businessman, America's Olympic "elder statesman" and most fluent spokesman.

Now he is facing his toughest battle — lung cancer.

A telephone call to his Phoenix, Ariz., home brought good news. He is reacting favorably to drugs and gaining strength after treatment at the University of Arizona Health Sciences Center.

"He is up and about," said his wife, Ruth, "and we are encouraged, but he isn't up to a lot of conversation."

Asked if Jesse had expressed himself on the present Olympic situation, Mrs. Owens said: "Oh, no. He's not ready to bite that bullet yet.

You know, he gets very emotional."

There are few more emotional or dynamic men than Jesse Owens, who is reminiscent of the late Dr. Martin Luther King when he takes the podium in defense of Olympic ideals and pride of country.

"The Olympics have become the whipping post of politics," he once said, "but, thank God, they are still run by man. Man has a way of over-riding such influences."

There is no indication how Jesse would view President Carter's call for a Moscow boycott. He undoubtedly would be torn between patriotism and a strong belief in the sanctity of the Olympic code.

While the press sensationality played up the theme that Hitler, surrounded by storm troopers, snubbed the black man who shattered the Fuehrer's theory of Aryan supremacy, Owens himself always has downplayed the incident.

"I don't know," Jesse said. "I never looked toward the box where Hitler and his entourage sat. I was too busy worrying about fulfilling my childhood dream."

"I was conditioned to discrimination when I went to Berlin. I was not politically oriented. None of us was. We were too busy working on our personal goals."

Patriot, preacher, ambassador, inspiration for the young, Owens refused to become embittered by early hardships and emerged as an unwavering booster of the American way of life.

Owens has refused to be disillusioned by the national rivalries and politics that have plagued the Games for years.

"You've got to be there to appreciate it," Jesse said recently. "Break bread together, sing together, train together and, at the end, see athletes looking around for an old friend from another country to trade a tie, a jacket or a tunic."

"That's the way I see the Olympic Games."

Thomas Does Everything To Win

By STEVE HERMAN
AP Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Anything Kurt Thomas does, he does to win. Finishing second, he says, is like finishing last.

"Winning is best," said the 23-year-old gymnast, who last year became the first American to win an all-around medal in international competition. He added another first to his list of accomplishments Monday night as recipient of the Amateur Athletic Union's annual Sullivan Award as the nation's top amateur athlete.

"This means a few things to me," the former NCAA champion from Indiana State University said. "First, it's important to me because it is given in Indiana, and this is where my gymnastics really began. Another thing is that this is the most prestigious award given."

Thomas, now an assistant coach at Arizona State University, beat out Renaldo Nehemiah, the world record holder in the high hurdles, and 15-year-old Cynthia Woodhead, who set two world and nine American swimming records in 1979, in the voting for the 50th annual Sullivan Award.

In addition to his own personal achievements, Thomas said he sees the emergence of American gymnasts as serious contenders in international competition as a source of "a lot of satisfaction."

"It's definitely improved overall," he said. "We competed (in the world championships at Fort Worth, Texas, in December) very well as a team, winning the bronze medal. And this is the first time we've had much depth."

Thomas, an intense perfectionist, finished fourth in the World Cup meet in Tokyo in June, then was runnerup in the all-around to Russia's Aleksandr Ditiatin in the world championships. It was the highest finish ever for an American gymnast in the world championships.

Thomas earned a gold medal in the horizontal bar, tied for another gold in the floor exercise, won a silver medal in the pommel horse and shared another silver in the parallel bars.

Never satisfied with second place, Thomas said he nonetheless felt "really pleased with my competition. I hit 22 of 22 routines without a major break."

Orangemen Win By 'Only' 35

By The Associated Press

When they played last year, the Syracuse basketball team buried Siena by 52 points. It wasn't as bad this time. The Orangemen "only" won by 35.

"It was a good opportunity to give everyone a shot to play," said Syracuse Coach Jim Boeheim after Monday night's 99-64 rout. "It gave us a chance to work on our defense and positioning, and I thought we did a good job on our defense."

"Roosevelt (Boie) makes such a difference against a team like Siena. Roosevelt dominates so much, they just give up. They can't handle him."

Last year's 144-92 Syracuse romp, which set several all-time school scoring records, by the way, prompted a tongue-in-cheek "Beat Siena Week" on the Syracuse campus. The promotion brought banners, chants and a sea of "Beat Siena" T-shirts to Monday's game.

"Our only regret was that they were making a zoo out of the game," said Siena guard Rod Owens. "We took it very seriously. I think all the yelling and T-shirts got us psyched up a little more."

The victory by the nation's second-ranked team was one of four by Top Twenty clubs Monday night. In other action, No. 3 Louisville whipped Memphis State 88-60; No. 9 Notre Dame trimmed Navy 67-53 and No. 11 North Carolina stopped Yale 85-74.

Darrell Griffith scored 31 points to lead Louisville's conquest of Metro Conference foe Memphis State. Eight of Griffith's points came in a 22-2 Louisville spurt midway through the second half that put the game out of the Tigers' reach.

Orlando Woolridge scored 18 points to lead Notre Dame over Navy. The Fighting Irish outscored Navy 29-7 at the foul line in the second half en route to their 15th victory in 18 games.

The Irish played once again without forward Kelly Tripucka, who sat out his fourth straight game with a strained back. He was joined on the bench by Gilbert Salinas, who sprained an ankle Saturday night in Notre Dame's 105-71 victory over Davidson.

Mike O'Koren's 20 points paced North Carolina over Yale. The Tar Heels played for the most part without the services of three of their top players — Rich Yonakor, Dave Colescott and John Virgil, all suffering injuries.

"I thought we played good defense in the first half," said North Carolina Coach Dean Smith, but added, "In the second half, we kept coming down and missing open 15-footers and they would get the rebound and go down and score."

Elsewhere, Michael Brooks scored a game-high 30 points to lead LaSalle over Lehigh 90-79; Randy Smithson and Mike Jones teamed for 25 points to lead Wichita State over New Mexico State 80-78; Bill Fields scored 25 points as Providence defeated Canisius 88-72; Terry Adolph scored 27 points and dished out 14 assists to pace West Texas State past Tulsa 92-80 and Rosie Barnes hit a jump shot with 20 seconds to go in overtime, lifting Bowling Green to a 79-78 decision over Ball State.

Also, Mike Doyle triggered a second-half rally and Jim Strickland scored a career-high 25 points to lead South Carolina over Rhode Island 84-75; Edmund Sherod and Tim Harris sparked a 16-4 run to help Virginia Commonwealth beat New Orleans 72-64; a 26-point performance by Ricky Pierce led Rice over Wright

State 84-78; South Alabama defeated Jacksonville 65-58 as Ed Rains scored 15 points; David Little, Kent Williams and Ralph Brewster each scored 12 points as Texas Tech beat Texas A&M 83-53; and LaSalle Thompson led Texas to a 54-point first half and the Longhorns went on to an 84-82 victory over Houston.

Sammy Ellis scored 25 points and Carlton Neverson hit two key free throws with 12 seconds left to lead Pitt over Eastern Kentucky 80-78; Jon Hanley's 18 points paced Xavier over Cincinnati 77-69; Rodney Arnold hit four foul shots in the final 18 seconds to lead Florida State past Auburn 73-69; Brad Branson's 19 points paced SMU over Baylor 73-69; Delmar Harrod's 27 points helped St. Bonaventure beat Detroit 88-86; Lewis Lloyd's 30 points paced Drake over Indiana State 85-80; Scott Hastings and U.S. Reed teamed for 27 points as Arkansas beat TCU 77-47; Richard Wright's two free throws with four seconds left clinched Oregon's 82-81 victory over Southern Cal and Andrew Toney's 26 points paced Southwest Louisiana over Lamar 75-64.

Ali Continues His Controversial Tour

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Floating like the proverbial butterfly and stinging like a bee with his remarks, Muhammad Ali continued his suddenly controversial tour of Africa today.

U.S. State Department officials say, in fact, that Ali's recent acerbic statements "are giving us a little heartburn."

The well-known boxer, on a five-nation tour of Africa theoretically to drum up support for President Carter's stand against the Moscow Olympics this summer, was anything but diplomatic Monday in Nairobi, Kenya, when he called the United States and Russia "the baddest two white men in history."

The presidential envoy also turned against Carter when he told a news conference that the President had put him on the spot by asking him to defend the U.S. record in Africa.

"I'm not here to take America's whipping," Ali said on the second stop of his tour.

"I am totally against South Africa."

Ali appeared to be startled when reporters asked him why the Soviet Union, and not the United States, traditionally has supported African liberation groups fighting against the remaining white colonial regimes.

Ali said he would tell President Carter in Washington next week, "if you make a move against South Africa...then these people will be glad to aid you."

Ali said Africans also resented being asked to stay away from the Moscow Games to protest the Soviets' military intervention in Afghanistan, although the United States refused to join an African boycott of the 1976 Olympics in Montreal to protest western sports links with Africa.

"African people have all the right to say to us: 'If you didn't support us, why should we support you?'" Ali was scheduled to meet religious and sports leaders today before leaving Wednesday for West Africa.

Woodstove Is Hot Market Item

By BARBARA MAYER
AP Newsfeatures

Once upon a time, owning a woodstove was all the evidence necessary to indicate you were a rugged individualist living in the backwoods.

Today, you could own a woodstove and be from anywhere.

The energy crisis and the high cost of home heating have helped make woodstoves status symbols for suburbanites and city dwellers. The number of woodstoves has escalated to the hundreds.

And the look of stoves can vary widely. Some models closely resemble the old, 19th-century Franklin stoves. Others look like miniature furnaces.

The popularity of woodstoves is not hard to fathom when you realize they are far more efficient producers of heat from wood than fireplaces. The newer, airtight models are capable of heating a home efficiently without any additional source of heat.

On a scale of 100, for example, fireplaces could register at zero while a properly installed woodstove could be extracting as much as 80 percent of the total combustion energy available in the wood.

Fireplaces, it has been shown, actually draw already-heated, warm air from the room up the chimney to provide combustion for a burning log. To maximize the amount of heat delivered, it would be necessary to install an airtight woodstove.

For a family that already has a fireplace and a chimney, installing a woodstove is quite simple. It's merely a matter of buying the stove and hooking it up to the chimney.

If there is no fireplace, a stove must be installed with proper clearance from combustible walls and a chimney and flue must be built.

People who object to losing the pleasure of watching an open fire can opt for a combination stove and fireplace unit, known as a combi-stove, which, though airtight when the doors are closed, allows for viewing the fire through open doors when the occasion warrants it.

Among other advantages of a stove over a fireplace is that it uses fewer logs, burning for as long as 12 to 14 hours on one load of wood. A number of the newer models are capable of taking either wood or coal as fuel. And a few models convert to oil heat as well.

Many wood stoves are used primarily for heating; others are used primarily for cooking. But some stoves combine the two functions in one unit.

Prices for stoves vary widely, depending on the size of the unit, the ease of cleaning it, heating capacity and durability. One dealer estimated that the prices range from a little over $100 to about $1,000. The majority of stoves appear to be in the $300 to $600 range, he said, not including installation.

The question of whether to purchase a steel or a cast-iron stove is debated on both sides. Each material has its adherents. But most authorities agree that cast-iron stoves are longer-lasting and less subject to the warping that plagues steel stoves. In all cases, the better stoves are lined with firebrick to protect them from deformation in the case of steel or cracking in the case of cast iron.

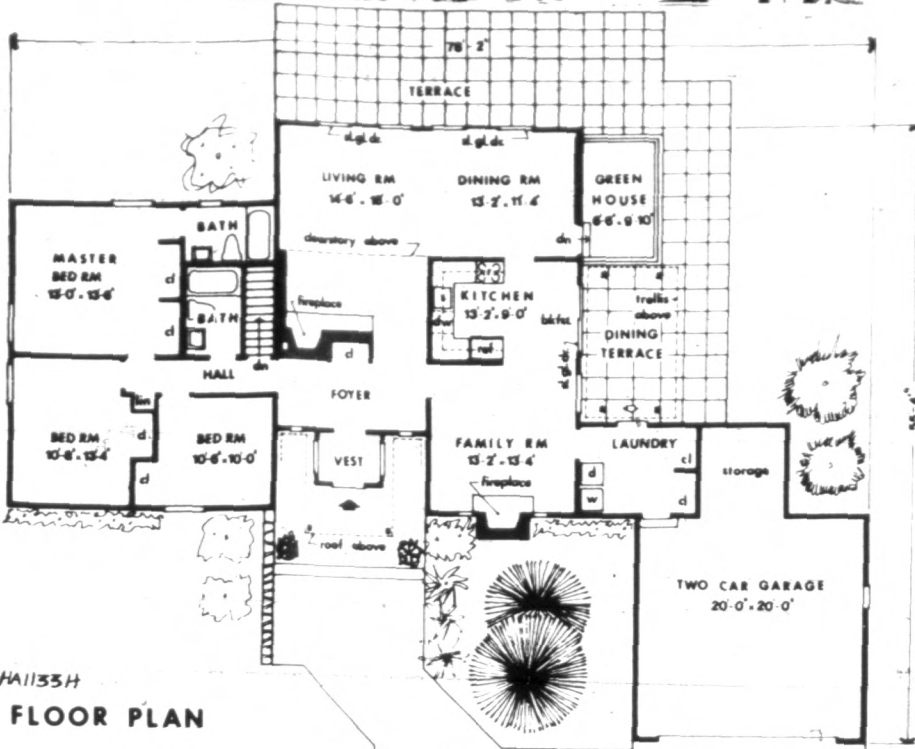

Although there are many American woodstoves, this is one product line where imports have achieved major distribution. The European stoves, which often feature a raised design and bright, porcelain-enamelled colors, have attracted many consumers.

No matter what kind of stove is used, the importance of proper chimney maintenance cannot be overemphasized. Creosote deposits are more likely to build up inside the chimney with woodstove operation than they are under normal fireplace usage. Consequently, switching to a woodstove is likely to lead to a fire hazard unless more attention is paid to maintaining a clean chimney.

Before making a final purchasing decision, it is wise to consult several retailers and to do some reading on your own.

One of a number of books on woodstoves is "Modern and Classic Woodburning Stoves," by Bob and Carol Ross (Overlook Press, 1978).

Officials Say Winter Brings Increase In Number Of Fires

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

An unattended fireplace. A carelessly placed electric heater. An oven door left open for heat.

These are the things that tragedy is made of during the winter months.

More than 6,000 persons died in fires in 1978, according to the National Safety Council. More than four out of five were killed in residential fires.

Fire prevention officials say there is a definite increase in the number of fires in the winter. People spend more time indoors and turn to makeshift sources of heat to keep warm.

According to statistics collected by the U.S. Fire Administration, more than 10 percent of all residential fires are associated with heating devices.

The National Bureau of Standards says that many people also underestimate the time it takes a fire to spread. According to the bureau, you may have only two minutes from the time a fire begins until the room is engulfed by what's known as the "flashover." If you have any doubt about your ability to put out a fire quickly and easily, leave the house immediately. Don't wait to call the fire department. Use a neighbor's telephone.

Here are some of the things you can do to avoid trouble:

PORTABLE ELECTRIC HEATERS

Look for a model with a broad, solid base and an automatic cut-off switch that will turn the heater off if it tips over accidentally. Check to see if the heater has been tested by one of the major laboratories and make sure the test applies to the entire unit—not just to the cord.

Find out if your heater needs a separate electric circuit. Don't try to take shortcuts and assume you will be safe. Have an electrician install proper wiring before you use the heater and always follow the manufacturer's instructions.

Keep heaters away from curtains, furniture and walkways and do not use them to dry clothing. As a general rule, if a wall or nearby object feels hot to the touch, it is too close to the heater. Warn children not to poke fingers or toys through protective guards and keep a close eye on toddlers whenever they are in the same room with heaters. Avoid using electric space heaters in bedrooms. Never touch one with wet hands.

KITCHEN STOVES

Never use a gas range or oven to heat your kitchen. It could produce potentially dangerous levels of carbon monoxide.

Do not leave oven doors on any kind of stove open. Children can burn themselves on heating elements.

NON-ELECTRIC SPACE HEATERS

Make sure there is proper ventilation. Many fuels, including kerosene, propane and coal, produce deadly fumes. You also need to get fresh air to prevent suffocation that can be caused by a heater consuming oxygen as fuel burns.

Gas Equipment More Efficient Than Ever

The U.S. Department of Energy appliance efficiency testing procedures bear it out: new gas appliances and furnaces are real money savers over the competition.

Using D.O.E. testing procedures and national average energy costs, the Energy Savings Payback figures of new, more efficient gas appliances are very impressive. Compared to conventional gas equipment and electric units, the E.S.P. savings with the latest, efficient gas units, equipped with intermittent ignition devices are dramatic, according to the American Gas Association (A.G.A.).

The newer, more efficient gas equipment maximizes the inherent cost advantages of gas to save customers even more money than before.

Gas heating is far more economical and efficient than electric heating. Five recent government and industry studies all agree that gas is more than twice as efficient as electricity for residential space heating with conventional furnaces. An A.G.A. analysis compares the results of studies by the U.S. Department of Energy, an independent research group, Pacific Gas and Electric Company and two A.G.A. reports. The analysis concludes that even when advanced end-use equipment is used, gas efficiency is 25 to 100 percent higher than electricity.

Additionally, the cost difference between gas and electric heating is even greater than that between gas and oil, with electric heat currently costing up to four times what gas heat costs.

Switching from oil to gas has the additional benefit of reducing U.S. oil imports, a factor which figures prominently in President Carter's endorsement of maximum possible use of gas for residential heating by converting wherever possible. The President's energy program reflects what consumers have already figured out—that gas home heating is far and away the most economical and efficient system.

Recognizing the advantages of gas energy and today's plentiful supply, state public utility commissions are dropping restrictions and moratoria on gas hookups which have held back conversions in the recent past. In 1976, for example, more than 50 percent of the nation's gas customers lived in areas subject to gas hookup restrictions. Today only about six percent of these areas served by gas are under policies of restriction.

These new, efficient gas appliances are not only far less expensive to run than electric units, but significantly cheaper than conventional gas appliances, as well.

For example, new intermittent ignition-equipped gas ranges cost up to 33 percent less to operate than conventional gas ranges with pilot lights and 45 percent less to operate than electric ranges. A.G.A. states. New gas dryers with intermittent ignition devices are 31 percent less expensive to operate than conventional gas dryers in use and a whopping 70 percent less than new electric dryers.

Similar savings are available with the new efficient gas water heaters, which save 24 percent over conventional gas models and 65 percent over electric heaters. And for home heating, gas continues to be the best buy by far. An efficient gas furnace equipped with intermittent ignition costs up to 19.5 percent less to operate than a pilot light-equipped gas furnace and 75 percent less than electric resistance furnaces.

The E.S.P. savings of these more efficient gas appliances are impressive inflation fighters every year they're operated. What is especially impressive, however, is the money they save over their lifetimes.

For example, the 17-year life span of an efficient gas furnace over a conventional gas unit yields an E.S.P. savings of up to $982.43, and a 40-gallon gas efficient water heater will save up to $204 over its 10-year lifetime, compared to its conventional gas counterpart, according to A.G.A. An efficient gas range saves up to $8.04 per year over a conventional gas unit and, over the range's 13-year life span, those savings add up to an impressive E.S.P. savings of $104.52.

Even greater savings are realized when gas efficient equipment is compared to electric units. An electric gas range is almost twice as expensive to operate as a gas efficient range. The E.S.P. savings over a range's 13-year lifespan is up to $169.53, since a gas range costs 45.1 percent less to operate than an electric range. A central furnace using electricity costs up to $962 per year to operate, as opposed to $238 for a gas efficient furnace—a 75 percent savings with gas, which amounts to as much as $12,298 savings over the furnace's 17-year lifespan. Equally remarkable is an E.S.P. figure of up to $1,583 for the 15-year lifespan of a gas efficient water heater, compared to an electric unit which costs nearly three times as much to operate.

Here's the Answer

Q — We moved into a very old house recently. The back rim of the bathtub is separated from the ceramic tile on the wall, not much but enough to be noticeable. What caused this, and is there anything that can be done about it?

A — According to American Standard Association specifications, tub hangers or special installation hooks must be used in certain types of tub installations. When such hangers are not used — and they were not required many years ago — drying out of the floor joists causes the tub to settle just a bit, creating the space you mentioned. The fault, therefore, lies in the tub installation and has nothing to do with the tiles. Dig out all the caulking or cracked grout between the tub and tiles and start afresh. Make sure the joint is thoroughly cleaned and dry, then recaulk. Many good, non-shrinkable new caulks are on the market and are available in caulking tubes.

Q — What does the designation "closed coat" mean on the label around a package of sandpaper?

A — Close-coated sandpaper means the mineral particles on the backing are close together. This type of paper is used for most general sanding. An open coating means the particles on the backing are spaced far apart. This allows the sanded material to fall free without clogging the sandpaper which can therefore be used for removing paint or working on old finishes or gummy surfaces.

Q — I used a wood filler on some oak furniture a few years ago and got a good result, but I can't remember now whether I used a sealer before putting on the varnish. Is a sealer necessary?

A — Yes. It prevents the possibility of the finishing material, varnish or anything else, dislodging the filler from the wood pores. The sealer can be shellac or any other sealer recommended by your dealer after you explain to him exactly how it is to be used. It is vital that the filler be 100 percent dry before applying the sealer. To be certain of this, allow at least twice as much time for the drying as recommended. Thus, if the label on the can of paste filler says it is the 12-hour drying type, wait 24 hours before putting on the sealer. When the sealer is dry, sand it with a very fine grade of sandpaper, using a light touch. The surface is then ready for the final finish.

The techniques of using wood filler, varnish, lacquer, shellac, bleach, remover, etc., are detailed in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," available by sending 50 cents PLUS a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column, but individual correspondence cannot be undertaken.)

Interior painting and exterior painting have a number of things in common, the most important of which is the necessity of proper surface preparation. In either case, prepare the surface and you are halfway to a good result.

For interior painting, the walls and ceiling must be free of loose dirt, peeling paint, oil and grease. The easiest way to remove loose dirt is with a vacuum-cleaner attachment or a dry mop, with emphasis on the word dry. Oil, grease, etc., can be taken off with an oilless paint thinner or detergent. Loose paint should be scraped and any cracks or holes filled with patching plaster or spackling compound.

Where gloss or semigloss enamels have been used in kitchens and bathrooms and on woodwork, the gloss should be duled with sandpaper or with de-glossing liquids available from your paint dealer, since paint will not adhere well to slick surfaces. If wax has been used on the woodwork, this, too, must be removed, preferably with a wax remover. If you decide to use any kind of paint thinner, be sure there is plenty of ventilation and that you do not smoke while working.

Most walls and ceilings are painted these days with rollers, although some persons still prefer brushes. Either brushes or edging rollers are used where walls and ceilings meet.

In painting window sashes, start with the vertical members; then the horizontals, then the sash frames. Follow with the sash tracks, then the casings, beginning with the top sections. Paint the edges first and then the face surfaces, ending with the sills. After that, paint the doors; first, the casings, then the door edges that swing toward the rooms being painted. Paint the baseboards last.

Oil-base paints are durable, highly resistant to staining and damage, can withstand frequent scrubbing and give good one-coat coverage. Many latex paints are advertised as having similar properties. The main advantages of latex are easier application, faster drying and simpler tool cleanup. The brushes, rollers and other equipment can be cleaned with soap and water. Paints usually come in three finishes — gloss, semigloss and flat. Glossy finishes are easy to clean. Flat finishes reduce glare but become dirty more easily. Semiglosses have properties of both glossy and flat finishes, with both oil and latex paints available in all three types.

(Kinds of paints for different surfaces, step-by-step procedures and techniques for the use of brushes and rollers are explained in Andy Lang's booklet, "Paint Your House Inside and Out," available by sending 50 cents PLUS a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.)

Fungus-Free Reflective Energy Saver Shingles

Deep shadow lines are a feature of Dimensional Shake asphalt roofing shingles, available from the Celotex Roofing Products Division of Jim Walter Corporation. The extra thick tabs and unique curl design of these shingles create the deep shadow-line effect of real hand-split shakes. Dimensional Shake Shingles are available in Bark Brown, Desert Wood, Woodtone and Shadow Gray.

An exclusive random tab design is a key feature of the Asphalt Rustic Shingles available from Celotex. Contrasting shadow bands give these shingles a rugged, yet esthetically pleasing appearance.

Celotex produces these shingles in beautiful earthtone colors.

For long-lasting protection against fungus discoloration of white roofing in hot, humid climates, a Fungus Resistant Shingle (FRS) is available from the Celotex Roofing Products Division of Jim Walter Corporation. A special zinc granule formulation, activated by rain or dew running off the roof, prevents the growth of fungi which cause streaky discoloration of white roofs. This fungi protection is warranted for 15 years by Celotex on their Tropical White "FRS" asphalt shingle.

Refrigerator Giving Out? Here's Good News

If your refrigerator is about to gasp its last breath and you're considering replacement, keep in mind that you're limited by the space your present appliance occupies.

But you're in for a pleasant surprise.

Because of design improvements since you bought your present model, you're probably going to have a lot more room in your freezer than you have now, as well as more fresh-food capacity. And you can get the added convenience of never having to defrost again.

Even if you don't have a lot of space in your kitchen, there's a two-door model from Hotpoint that'll fit into a space 28 inches wide and only 61 inches high, including allowance for air circulation — yet will still give you 4.58 cubic-feet of freezer space and 9.61 cubic-feet for fresh food. Yes: It's No-Frost.

Or if you have a space available 66 by 30 1/2 inches, Hotpoint has a deluxe two-door, No-Frost model that measures a generous 20.8 cubic-feet overall, with an abundant freezer section of 6.94 cubic-feet. Just think of the ice capacity.

Eight of Hotpoint's Top Freezer, No-Frost models are equipped for an optional automatic ice-maker, and all have the Energy Saver switch. Moreover these models feature separate egg storage, produce crispers, deep door shelves, and convenient door stops to protect nearby walls and cabinets. And most of them roll out on wheels for easier floor clearing.

So if it's time for you to replace your refrigerator, you're likely to find a lot more capacity plus extra features — all fitting into the same space as your present model.

Laundry Room Can Be A Whole Lot More

Green thumbs can lead to dirty thumbs...and hands...and clothes. So a potting room/laundry room combination can be an ideal solution to a gardener's problem. This clean-up center opens out into a mini-greenhouse, and features a convenient sink, ample storage space, and a Hotpoint laundry pair. This is just one of the ways a home's laundry area can be expanded into multiple uses.

New hope for acne

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR LAMB — I read a magazine article about a new treatment for acne I'm 29 years old and have had acne since I was 13. This new treatment is 13-cis retinoic acid (a vitamin A acid that's taken orally). I was wondering how effective this treatment is and if there are any side effects.

DEAR READER — The preliminary research work on the new derivative of vitamin A is promising. The results noted, in individuals with severe acne that hasn't responded well to other treatment is really quite remarkable.

This new treatment is not available for doctors to prescribe to patients at this time. It's still undergoing testing. While the results are good, it needs to be tested long enough to be sure that there are no important side effects or complications of the medicine itself.

I'd like to point out that this is not the same thing as standard vitamin A that people can buy in stores. Often young people will try to take large amounts of vitamin A to control acne. It doesn't and, worse than that, too much vitamin A can cause a vitamin A toxicity.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 8-2, Acne Can Be Treated. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with along, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 151, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. This issue will provide the necessary information that you need to do whatever can be done with a home management program.

Basically, this entails using warm, moist soaks to help loosen the fatty secretions that have plugged the pores of the skin and effort to decrease the overproduction of the oily sebum material to begin with. If such simple measures don't work to provide adequate control of acne, a person really should see a doctor. There are many things he can do for you, including prescribing antibiotics when needed.

DEAR DR LAMB — I have a friend who broke his neck in a diving accident six years ago and is now paralyzed from the waist down. Recently I've heard of experimental operations being performed on dogs that have been successful in reconstructing the break. Has this type of operation ever been performed successfully on human beings? If so, I would appreciate any information you might have concerning this.

DEAR READER — Some other readers might not know that the spinal cord and the brain will not regenerate if they've been injured. That's why if you damage the spinal cord in the right place, you may be paralyzed.

For years doctors have sought some means of inducing regeneration in injuries of the cord and brain — without a lot of success.

You probably read about some recent research in which the spinal cord in dogs was crushed and then the segment that was crushed was cut out and replaced with a special nerve tissue grafting which did result in regrowth of the damaged area. That's very promising research but it's still at the animal stage. It will be quite a while yet before we know whether or not it will be successful in humans. And even then it may be useful only in those who have recent injuries.

Information To Be Released Next Week

By SY RAMSEY
Associated Press Writer
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky State Police have been upheld by the attorney general's office in their refusal to release certain information on Sgt. Eugene Coffey of Elizabethtown, who shot and killed a Kentucky fugitive in Illinois.

The police investigation is being conducted by Commissioner Ken Brandenburg, who has returned from a trip to Illinois. Brandenburg said Monday through an aide that he will release his findings next week.

The shooting of Clyde Daniel Graham in an Effingham motel Dec. 8, has prompted introduction of a legislative resolution for a General Assembly investigation.

A coroner's inquest at Effingham last month resulted in a verdict of justifiable homicide. Graham had been sought in the shooting death of another state trooper, Eddie Harris, last November near Elizabethtown.

The Louisville Times, citing the open records law, had sought reports and documents on official evaluation of Coffey's performance as a state trooper and all data used in making the evaluation.

It is our opinion that the evaluation documents sought here contain material of a personal nature where the public disclosure would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy," Assistant Attorney General Charles Runyan told Brandenburg.

We must balance a public interest purpose for disclosure of personal information against the potential invasion of individual privacy."

Normally, attorney general's opinions are advisory and without force of law. But in open records and open meeting cases, the opinion is the law, subject to appeal to courts.

"The mere evaluation of a state policeman's performance is a matter of opinion and, standing alone, does not constitute any action on the part of the Kentucky State Police," Runyan said.

He told Brandenburg that "in denying the copying and inspection of the requested evaluation records, you acted consistent with the provision of the open records law."

A number of news reporters have tried without success to contact Coffey for comment.

Brandenburg has said Coffey's unavailability simply is a matter of privacy and keeping "the phone from ringing off the hook."

One of Brandenburg's aides said the commissioner, who talked with the head of state police in Illinois and with Effingham police last week, is preparing his report for the justice secretary and governor.

Special To Take Look At Teenage Alcoholism

FRANKFORT, Ky. — The Department for Human Resources is hoping a network television program scheduled next month will help Kentucky parents and youths take a closer look at a growing problem — teenage alcoholism.

The two-hour special, "The Boy Who Drank Too Much," is slated by CBS for Feb. 6 at 9 p.m. The department has asked local comprehensive care centers to notify schools and community groups about the program.

Bill Kelsey, a prevention coordinator with the department's alcohol and drug branch, sees the show as an opportunity to focus on a problem he feels the public may not know much about.

"Teenage alcoholism may not be as publicized as alcoholism in older age groups," he said. "We feel it is a problem that needs to be looked at and talked about."

While statistics for teenage alcoholism in Kentucky are not readily available, national data suggest there are 3.3 million teenage problem drinkers in the country,

Kelsey said.

Kelsey said the sponsor for the CBS special, Xerox Corp., has arranged for a four-page viewer's guide to be distributed to approximately 100,000 schools and civic groups throughout the country. The guide is designed to promote family discussion on alcoholism and related topics, including support of the alcoholic, friendship and other issues, Kelsey said.

He stated every school and some community groups in Kentucky will receive the guide.

Kelsey said he hopes more open discussion of teenage alcoholism will encourage teens with drinking problems and their parents to seek help through comprehensive care centers or other local resources in their community.

Barber Will Not Lobby

By CHARLES WOLFE
Associated Press Writer
LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) —

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Raymond Barber says he will not lobby against professional negotiations for Kentucky teachers, although Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. "knows I ran (for office) in opposition to mandatory bargaining."

The latest attempt at a professional negotiations law began Friday with a bill introduced by state Sen. William Quinlan, D-Louisville, on behalf of the administration.

Barber, who spoke Monday to the Kentucky School Boards Association's annual meeting, said Quinlan's bill "has its problems."

He predicted the measure would not survive the Senate or House in its present form, but declined to say what changes he thought should be made in the bill.

The members of the General Assembly are quite capable of making whatever changes need to be made," he said.

Although he discussed professional negotiations with reporters, Barber avoided the controversial subject in his address to the KSB. Instead, he urged local school districts to assume greater responsibility in education funding.

The state and federal governments now pay 78 percent of the tab. Barber indicated the state could not continue that level of funding indefinitely, but said he would ask the legislature for a substantial increase through the next two fiscal years.

Barber's office in Frankfort said the budget request for fiscal 1981 would be $1.2 billion — $96 million more than was requested for the current fiscal year — and $1.3 billion for fiscal 1982.

"Financing is very important in doing what we'd like to achieve, but over the last four years (local school boards) have probably become spoiled," Barber said. "I believe this trend must swing back in the other direction. As to how we're going to do that remains to be seen."

He set no goal for local spending, but stressed to those at the meeting that local financing would give school boards more control of their districts.

Barber said in an interview the "momentum" for state spending on education "picked up considerably" during Julian Carroll's administration. He added Brown "in the near future" would recommend ways in which local spending could be increased.

It "stands to reason" those recommendations would include local tax increases or cuts in existing local programs, he said.

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake

FOR WEDNESDAY, What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Secret money worries. A partner brimming over with new thoughts. Co-workers possibly unsympathetic. Enemies use subtle tactics.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Not everybody is sympathetic at a party. A time to finish a work project or abandon it. Don't let intuition give way to daydreaming.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You'll reach a decision re a casual interest. Elders may be critical about heart matters. Trust hunches about entertainment plans.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A child is determined. Follow through on domestic decisions. Don't be careless signing documents. Relatives may speak of problems.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22) Money disputes possible. You're effective in speech, but should find a creative outlet for ideas. Don't be too set in your opinions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) Don't discourage a close ally who wants to have fun.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you want to take a new lease on life, you'll have to come to terms with a past issue. Opt for creative activity instead of escapism.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A friend may seem cold or indifferent. You may tire of the social scene and seek solitude. A time for self-analysis and fresh perspectives.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Work responsibilities compete with family needs. You may be somewhat critical of a friend. Don't become too embroiled in others' problems.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) A turning point career-wise. Throw off worry about a distant matter and use intuition to further business interests. Advice may be faulty.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) Not a time to seek credit or to worry about same. Share cultural activities with friends. Come to a decision re travel-school.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20) A pressing workload could dim your outlook. Take things in stride. Seek ways to consolidate your financial structure. Trust hunches.

Stamp Out Your Woes

DEAR ABBY: From time to time I read complaints from readers insisting that you didn't answer their letter, even though they sent self-addressed, stamped envelopes.

Well, I have written to you several times, and I have always received a prompt, personal and very helpful reply. Our newspaper seldom prints your address, so I write in care of the newspaper.

Doesn't it ever occur to people that once in a while the mailman goes off? Many times honest neighbors will bring us our mail which had been placed in their box by mistake! Abby, please print your address. I'm sure your readers would appreciate it.

DEAR BELIEVES: Thanks, I needed that. My address is:

ABBY
132 LASKY DRIVE
BEVERLY HILLS, CALIF. 90212

Now, for some ground rules: Unlike "Letters to the Editor," you need not sign your name in order to have a letter answered in my column. But because I receive thousands of letters each week, the chances of being answered in the column are small. However, every letter accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope receives a personal reply. (I do not send form letters!)

Every letter is held in strictest confidence. Those sent in care of the newspaper are forwarded to me, unopened. I never disclose the writer's name or location without his consent. (Some suggest their own "phony names; some are dreamed up by me.) Their locations are also changed in the interest of privacy, and to protect the innocent as well as the guilty.

Some published letters must be edited for clarity and length, but I do not alter the contents. There is no charge for a personal reply, but I am not obligated to answer letters unless they are accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

So, if you have a personal problem and need help, write to me. I care.

Love,
ABBY

DEAR ABBY: A recent column regarding the son who didn't want his father to visit him because he considered it an invasion of his privacy, struck home with us. We have a similar situation in that our married son, who lives in another city, doesn't want his mother to visit him for the same reason.

Three years ago my wife wrote to our son saying she would like to visit him and his wife. His response was out of this world! He told her in no uncertain terms that she could visit him only when it was convenient for him. The tone of his letter caused considerable anguish, and my wife was in tears for several days.

My wife has written him several times, asking when it would be convenient for her to visit, but he keeps putting her off with one excuse after another. Surely in three years there should have been one week for her to visit!

Our son has no use for me, so I stay out of his way, however, I feel very sorry for my wife.

Personally, I don't care if I never see the selfish guy again, but his mother is hurting.

What should I do?

DEAR CONCERNED: Encourage your wife to get some professional counseling. She needs to learn how to handle the obvious rejection she is getting from her son. I suspect that there is another side to this sad story.

DEAR ABBY: Re: Throwing birdseed instead of rice. Experience shows that the birds will eat the rice as wholeheartedly.

You "mustard seed" this one coming!

ASSISTANT PASTOR: NORWOLK, CONN.

Claim Made By FBI Investigation Source

Ninth Congressman Involved

WASHINGTON (AP) — A source close to the FBI's 14-month investigation of political corruption says a ninth member of Congress may be involved in the case.

But this source, who asked not to be named, said that at this time the ninth member does not appear to be the subject of further scrutiny, unlike the seven House members and one senator whose names became public over the weekend. They remain subject to possible grand jury action.

Meantime, House ethics committee members voted in closed session Monday to hire a special counsel to lead their independent inquiry into the case. And the Senate ethics committee chairman informally asked the Justice Department for help with that panel's own investigation.

Department officials said they would await a written request for aid before responding.

Details of the possible involvement of a ninth member could not be learned.

Declining to identify the ninth member, the source nevertheless emphasized that only one member of Congress who met with FBI undercover agents, Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., has been cleared by the government. Sources have reported that Pressler stormed out of a meeting with undercover agents when it was indicated they represented a client willing to pay for political favors.

The source also denied that the ninth member was among three New Jersey congressmen who told reporters Monday they had rejected overtures last year similar to those made during the FBI undercover investigation. Those three were Reps. James Howard, William Hughes and James Florio, all Democrats.

Howard and Hughes said they called the FBI Monday to discuss the overtures. Florio said he did not do that because he felt the FBI already knew of unsuccessful attempts to strike a deal with him.

In all, some 20 public officials and 10 businessmen and lawyers have been implicated, sources say. Undercover agents paid out almost $500,000 in cash, though fewer than half the officials actually took money, the sources say. Some transactions were videotaped.

Besides state and local officials in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, sources say subjects of the FBI investigation include Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., and Reps. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y.; Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J.; Michael O. Myers, D-Pa.; Raymond F. Lederer, D-Pa.; John W. Jenrette, D-S.C.; John P. Murtha, D-Pa., and Richard Kelly, R-Fla.

Most of them have denied any wrongdoing.

The first formal charges arising from the FBI investigation were filed Monday against an Immigration and Naturalization Service investigator in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Alexander A. Alexandro Jr., 29, of Commack, N.Y., was arraigned before a U.S. magistrate and charged with bribery and conspiracy. The government said he accepted $2,000 in return for promising to aid an alien gain permanent U.S. resident status.

Saudi Arabia May Cut Prices Or Up Output

NEW YORK (AP) — Saudi Arabia, producer of nearly one-third of OPEC's oil, reportedly may cut prices or increase its output to slow a price spiral it started with a $2-a-barrel increase last week.

The report in the Middle East Economic Survey came Monday as Nigeria, Algeria and Indonesia, suppliers of 11 percent of U.S. oil needs, raised crude oil prices by up to $4.21 per 42-gallon barrel.

The moves brought to nine the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries members following last week's Saudi increase, which was billed as a move to stabilize conditions in the 13-nation cartel.

A barrel of Algerian crude oil, now OPEC's most expensive grade, went to $37.21 from $33 in early January and $26.27 in November. Nigerian oil rose from $30 to $34.21 a barrel, and Indonesian oil climbed $2 to $29.50.

Other nations' oil rose by $2 to $25.50 a barrel, to $28 to $31.

The economic survey said in Nicosia, Cyprus, that Saudi Arabia was "extremely disturbed and disappointed" by the increases, which when added to the Saudis' action could add 2.5 to 3 cents a gallon to U.S. retail gasoline and heating oil prices.

The influential newsletter, quoting an unidentified Saudi source, said some OPEC members "have shown that their only target is to push the price of oil upwards regardless of any harmful consequences."

The source also was quoted as saying, "Saudi Arabia might either reduce its price," which at $26 a barrel is the lowest in the cartel, "or considerably increase the level of production over and above the current level" of 9.5 million barrels a day.

"Politics would dictate (the Saudis) not starving the world at a time when Russian tanks are threatening the Middle East oilfields," said Theodore R. Eck, chief economist of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana).

"If Saudi Arabia continues above 9 million barrels a day, my guess is that it will be very difficult for OPEC to effect additional increases," Eck said.

The Saudis have been priceincreasing "doves" at OPEC meetings, trying to hold the line to prevent severe economic shocks that could plunge the industrialized world into a deep recession. Much of the Saudi's oil wealth has been reinvested in U.S. and Western European industry, real estate and securities.

Iranian President To Do Away With Corruption

By The Associated Press

Abolhassan Bani Sadr, sworn in as Iran's first president by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, pledged to do away with corruption but made no mention of the U.S. hostages who began their 94th day of captivity today.

Bani Sadr took the oath of office Monday in a televised ceremony at the Tehran hospital where the 79-year-old Khomeini is recuperating from a heart attack.

He said he would work to rid Iran of hundreds of years of corruption resulting from successive monarchial regimes. The last one, headed by Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, was ousted by Khomeini's revolution a year ago.

"We are facing great difficulties, but I am sure that we will overcome them thanks to the powerful will of our nation," the 46-year-old president said.

Bani Sadr officially became president when Khomeini handed him the presidential decree. He is expected to choose a cabinet after parliamentary elections in about a month.

Bani Sadr's opponents in the ruling Revolutionary Council did not want him sworn in until after the elections, but his installation by Khomeini showed he had more clout than they did.

"I ask Mr. Bani Sadr to remain humble and his morality not be changed by serving as president," said Khomeini, Iran's Shiite Moslem patriarch. "I pray to God to protect all of us from tending towards the East or the West."

Khomeini said he would endorse and support Bani Sadr as long as he follows the sacred principles of Islam, abides by the constitution and helps the poor and the oppressed.

The presidential term is four years, but the new Islamic constitution confers supreme power for life on Khomeini, and he can dismiss the president any time he wants to. Bani Sadr was ousted as foreign minister two months ago for taking too moderate an approach to the hostage crisis.

Over the weekend he indicated that the U.S. government must help Iran get the shah back for trial before the approximately 50 hostages, seized at the U.S. Embassy Nov. 4, are freed.

Khomeini's regime, meanwhile, agreed to U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim's plan to set up an international commission to investigate its charges against the shah. Waldheim's idea was for the hostages to be turned over to a third party, possibly the Red Cross, when the commission is set up.

U.N. spokesman Rudolf Stadjuhr told reporters in New York that "anything representing movement is welcome."

But he said the Americans want the hostages freed when the commission begins meeting, while the Iranians want to hold the hostages until after the commission makes its report.

Afghan Refugees Claim 1979 Massacre

By The Associated Press

Refugees from Afghanistan report Afghan troops led by Soviet advisers massacred more than 1,000 men last year in a village accused of collaborating with the Moslem guerrillas. But the Kremlin denied the report, calling it "monstrous misinformation."

The refugees' report was relayed by Edward Girardet of the Christian Science Monitor, writing from the Raghni Pass on the border between Afghanistan and Pakistan. He gave this account in his copyrighted dispatch:

About 200 Afghan soldiers led by 20 Soviet advisers entered the village of Kerala, in eastern Afghanistan about 40 miles from the Pakistani border, last April 20.

"They forced all the men to line up in crouching positions in the field just outside the town and then opened up with their machine guns from behind," said Abdul Latif, a traffic policeman who said he was among the survivors.

The order to fire came from a "dark-blond, green-eyed Russian soldier who wore an Afghan uniform without insignia."

Within minutes a bulldozer was put into action, plowing the bodies under in the field while the wives and children of the men watched and wept. Some of the victims apparently were still alive and moving.

"Then they spread out through the town gunning down all the remaining men they could find," Girardet said about 400 families from the village fled to Pakistan, where more than 500,000 Afghans have found refuge since Afghan communists took over the government in Kabul nearly 22 months ago and a Moslem guerrilla rebellion broke out in the countryside.

"Overall corroboration of testimonies by the survivors, many of whom live miles apart, confirms the magnitude of the killings — although the exact number of victims must remain an estimate," Girardet reported.

In Washington, meanwhile, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said U.S. intelligence information indicates some 2,500 Soviet troops have been killed or wounded in Afghanistan since the Russians sent an occupation army estimated at 100,000 men into their southern neighbor last month to install a more compliant government and help put down the Moslem rebellion.

Students, faculty, and other interested persons are invited to participate in the informal luncheon and discussion period. Individuals will have the opportunity to express their views about university governance issues as well as bear the views of others, a spokesman said.

Kennedy Wants Carter Out On Campaign Trail

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is still trying to goad President Carter out of the White House and into the campaign, but Vice President Walter F. Mondale contends the voters want him in Washington and at work.

Kennedy tried a couple of new plays Monday. First, he accepted invitations to 35 debates in 22 states on the condition that Carter come, too.

Then he waved an invitation to the White House at a campaign rally in Concord, N.H., saying, "I didn't get this, but 300 citizens of New Hampshire did."

While Democrats debated their debateless campaign, a crowd of Republicans courted New Hampshire voters, chorusing criticism of the administration.

Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan was staging a nine-town campaign swing today — the eve of his 69th birthday. At a Monday night campaign rally, a turnout of perhaps 100 people sang "Happy Birthday" while Reagan beamed.

He said all the discussion of his age didn't bother him a bit. Reagan said New Hampshire is "a very important state" to him, but avoided calling a victory here essential to his campaign. He said no one state is a make-or-break test.

Former United Nations Ambassador George Bush, who beat Reagan in Iowa's Republican caucuses Jan. 21, said he came to New Hampshire to do it again.

"My main objective is to beat Reagan," he said. "He was clearly out in front and he's the man I must beat."

Bush's triumph in Iowa came in a non-binding straw poll.

He placed a distant third Saturday, behind front-running Reagan and Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee,

Fish and Prize Fighter:
Youth-Oriented Comedies

I didn't know what to expect when I went to see The Fish That Saved Pittsburgh. From the sound of the title, I thought it might be a science fiction movie. It turned out to be a far rarer species, a basketball comedy. The star of the movie, if you can believe it, is the Doctor of Dunk, Julius Erving, the star of the Philadelphia 76ers.

Fish is not exactly a comedy in the realistic tradition. When everyone on the Pittsburgh team except Erving walks out, the team holds open tryouts. Those chosen include a hip DJ, a fundamentalist preacher, a black militant, an Indian, and a forty-year-old crew-cut set-shot specialist. This unlikely team ends up winning their division and then playing the Los Angeles Lakers (with Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Connie Hawkins) in the NBA championship game.

If you like slam dunks and disco music, you are in for a treat. Erving and his teammates slam hundreds of hoop-rattling dunks, and we see them from every conceivable camera angle — and all to a disco beat.

At least you know what to expect when you go to a movie called The Prizefighter starring Don Knotts and Tim Conway: slapstick, funny faces, pratfalls, and the familiar shucks from two of the great schlemiels of T.V. comedy (putting aside Knotts' ill-conceived role in Three's Company).

If you enjoy Conway's shtick of dumbfounded discomfiture while someone is doing something outrageous to him, you'll love one scene in Prizefighter. Conway sits at the dinner table trying to ignore an insanely grinning senile woman who is pushing a stalk of celery into his ear and stuffing an olive in his left nostril. And Knotts get plenty of opportunity to work his famous shtick into the movie: the smug, teeth-sucking look that comes over his face when he's bragging or when he's putting the make on girls. The climax to the bit occurs, of course, when his face falls when his ego is deflated.

The comedy of both movies is obviously oriented toward youth. Prizefighter is a pretty good movie for parents with their children. The kids will probably like it, and the adults will find it occasionally amusing. At the performance I attended, there seemed to be a lot of families in the audience, many of whom applauded at the climax of the prize fight. Fish seems designed for a slightly older crowd (sub-teen to teenager). Adults, unless they are basketball fans, will probably not enjoy it.

Both movies are rated PG. The fights in Prizefighter are not very graphic, but they might bother some very young children. There is no violence in Fish. Both movies contain a smattering of four-letter words.
